Taalthuis
Free online Dutch course

http://www.taalthuis.com

Sjoerd de Vos
Marcel Heerink
Table of contents

Introduction

- 3

Beginners Course

- Lesson 1: 4
- Lesson 2: 5
- Lesson 3: 10
- Lesson 4: 15
- Lesson 5: 20
- Lesson 6: 25
- Lesson 7: 31
- Lesson 8: 36
- Lesson 9: 42
- Lesson 10: 48

Intermediate Course

- Lesson 1: 55
- Lesson 2: 62
- Lesson 3: 65
- Lesson 4: 68
- Lesson 5: 71
- Lesson 6: 74
- Lesson 7: 78
- Lesson 8: 81
- Lesson 9: 84
- Lesson 10: 87

Theory/Grammar

- De and het: 94
- Constructing sentences: 95
- Plural: 96
- Pronouns: 97
- Verbs general: 98
- Verbs present: 99
- Verbs past regular: 100
- Verbs perfect regular: 101
- Irregular verbs: 102
- Verbs Couples: 104
- Reflexive verbs: 106
- Comparative and superlative: 108
- Nightmares of er: 110
- Maar, eens en even: 112
Introduction

Learning Dutch might not be the easiest thing in the world, it's also certainly not the toughest thing: grammar and spelling are - much more than English - tied to strict rules that usually can be explained in a few lines.

Still, it's good to have a good teacher to guide you. If you want to do it all by yourself, you might use this Free Online Dutch Course: it contains all the basic grammar, vocabulary and even pronunciation rules you need and even a lot of online exercises and tests. All the content of this book is also available online. It might be a good idea to use this book in combination with the site and its videos and interactive tests.

If you feel you still need some help, or just like to contact people who might run into the same problems, you'll be happy to learn there's a forum hardly any question remains unanswered.
Beginners course

The beginners lessons have the following parts:

- Intro: a brief description of the lesson's contents.
- Texts: either short monologues or dialogues, connected to wave files, or long reading texts (for the higher levels). The texts are introduced with a short explanation.
- Vocabulary: new words in this lesson.
- More...: connected grammar lessons and word or phrase lists.
- A self-grading test to check your vocabulary, grammar, reading and listening skills.

No matter how advanced you are, it never hurts to start at the very first lesson...
Lesson 1 - Wat is dit?

Intro
This lesson gives you a brief introduction to the Dutch language. You'll learn your first Dutch words, you'll get an idea of how sounds relate to writing in Dutch, you'll get familiar with 'niet' and 'geen' and you'll be introduced to 'de' and 'het'.

Text 1.1 - Dit is...

• Wat is dit?
• Dit is een pen.
• Is de pen zwart?
• Ja, de pen is zwart

• Wat is dit?
• Dit is een boek.
• Is het boek rood?
• Nee, het boek is groen.

You might have noticed that there are two definite articles (words meaning 'the' in English): 'de' and 'het'. It might be interesting to know that masculine and feminine words have 'de' and neuter words have 'het', but that doesn't always help you that much, because in most cases there's no way of telling wether a word is masculine, feminine or neuter. Only for people and animals this might help you. Like in:

• de man (- the man)
• de vrouw (- the women)
• het kind (- the child)
Text 1.2 - Is dit een pen?

Is dit een pen?
- Nee, dat is geen pen, dat is een potlood.

- Is dit een boek?
  - Nee, dat is geen boek. Dat is een map.
  - Is de map oranje?
    - Nee, de map is niet oranje. De map is geel.

You could say 'geen pen' means 'not a pen' or just 'no pen'. In fact 'geen' is used for nouns and 'niet' is used for other types of words:

- geen man - no man
- niet goed - not good
Study this well, it might get you into trouble if you don't know how to spell in Dutch! Pay special attention to the A, E, I and IJ.

Text 1.4 - Welke kleur...?

- Welke kleur heeft deze auto?
  - Deze auto is wit.
  - Die auto is blauw.

- Dit huis is groot,
  - dat huis is klein.

- Welke kleur is dit?
  - Deze kleur is bruin.

This and that in Dutch translate as follows:

- For 'de' words this is 'deze' and that is 'die'
- For 'het' words this is 'dit' and that is 'dat'

In short (hier - over here, daar - over there):

- hier daar
- de deze die
- het dit dat
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Dutch</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>het alfabet</td>
<td>the alphabet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de auto</td>
<td>the car</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>blauw</td>
<td>blue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bruin</td>
<td>brown</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het boek</td>
<td>the book</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>daar</td>
<td>there, over</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dat</td>
<td>that</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de</td>
<td>the</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>deze</td>
<td>this, these</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>die</td>
<td>that, those</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dit</td>
<td>this, these</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>een</td>
<td>a, an</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>geel</td>
<td>yellow</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>goed</td>
<td>good</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>groot, grote</td>
<td>big</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>groen</td>
<td>green</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>heeft</td>
<td>has</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het</td>
<td>it, the</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hier</td>
<td>here, over</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het huis</td>
<td>the house</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ja</td>
<td>yes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het kind</td>
<td>the child</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>klein, kleine</td>
<td>small</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de kleur</td>
<td>the color</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de man</td>
<td>the man</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de map</td>
<td>the folder</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nee</td>
<td>no</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>oranje</td>
<td>orange</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de pen</td>
<td>the pen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het potlood</td>
<td>the pencil</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rood</td>
<td>red</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de vrouw</td>
<td>the women</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wat</td>
<td>what</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>welk, welke</td>
<td>which</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wit</td>
<td>white</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zwart</td>
<td>black</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

• Before you move on to the next chapter you should study:
  - Grammar pages: 'Of course, 'de' and 'het' (theory + exercises)
  - Grammar pages: basic pronunciation and spelling
  - Lists & sounds: colors

• To get familiar with some Dutch words, you could stick notes with the appropriate words in Dutch on objects around you.

Here's a list to start with:

• the chair - de stoel
• the door - de deur
• the table - de tafel
• the couch - de bank
• the tv - de televisie
• the cupboard - de kast
• the bookcase - de boekenkast
• the wall - de muur
• the ash tray - de asbak
• the carpet - het vloerkleed
• the rug - het kleedje
• the lamp - de lamp
• the window - het raam
• the clock - de klok
• the phone - de telefoon
• the plant - de plant
Lesson 2 - Wie ben jij?

This lesson teaches you how to introduce yourself. You'll learn how to tell what your name is, what country you're coming from and where you are living. Of course, you'll also learn how to ask questions on this, so after this lesson you should be able to have a real brief conversation in Dutch. You'll also learn a bit on being formal and informal (u and jij), on verb infinitives and on the Dutch version of 'to be'.

The title of this lesson Wie ben jij? (means 'who are you?' shows you a question word (wie), a form of the verb zijn ('to be') and a personal pronoun (jij). We'll be dealing with all three of these items, but let's first deal with the function of the phrase: asking someone's name.

Here's a little conversation in which it is used:

Text 2.1 - Ik ben Heidi

- Wie ben jij?
- Ik ben Heidi.
- Waar kom je vandaan?
- Ik kom uit Nederland.
- Waar woon je?
- Ik woon in Leiden.

Question words can be confusing: the Dutch word hoe, sounds like the English 'who', but means 'how, while the Dutch word wie, meaning 'who', sounds like the English 'we', which is wij in Dutch and that sounds more or less like 'why', but that's waarom in Dutch. That's why the next text is a simple listing of question words:

Text 2.2 - Question words

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Dutch</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>wie</td>
<td>who</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wat</td>
<td>what</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>waar</td>
<td>where</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>waarom</td>
<td>why</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hoe</td>
<td>how</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
There are more ways to ask or tell a name. The next text does not only give alternative phrases, it also introduces u for second person singular instead of jij. This is a matter of being formal instead of informal. In contemporary Dutch, you would be formal to adult strangers and business contacts and informal to colleagues, friends and children. To relatives, most Dutch people are informal, but quite some people are still using u to address their parents and (even more) grandparents.

Text 2.3 - Hoe heet u?

Hoe heet u?
Mijn naam is Conti
Mijn voornaam is Gianni
Mijn achternaam is Conti
Uit welk land komt u?
Ik kom uit Italië

A conversation like this could be continued with questions and answers in the next text. A few remarks to go with it:

- Always use the article when mentioning the street: ..ik woon in de Dapperstraat...
- Telling where you live, for ...straat you use in, for ...plein (square) you use op or aan (ik woon op/aan het Leidseplein), for ...gracht, you use aan(... aan de Herengracht), for the number you use op (op nummer 38).
- Just saying the word Aangenaam is the most common way of saying 'pleased to meet you' (literally: aangenaam met u kennis te maken).
- The phrase Wat doet u? is commonly used to inquire about someone's occupation.

Text 2.4 - Aangenaam

Aangenaam
Ik woon in Amsterdam
In de Dapperstraat
Op nummer 15
Mijn meisjesnaam is Agneta Magnusson
Ik ben getrouwd met een Nederlandse man.
Wat doet u?
We've been using a few verbs now, though not always infinitives (you need those to look them up in the dictionary). Note that the infinitive almost always ends on -en: ik kom - infinitive: komen (exceptional, nevertheless: knowing the Dutch spelling you would perhaps expect 'komen'...) ik heet - infinitive: hetenik doe - infinitive: doen Exceptions are: gaan (to go), staan (to stand) and zijn (to be). Since zijn is not only very irregular (like 'to be' is in most languages), but also the most used verb, it would be a good idea to learn all the forms for present and past right now:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>present past</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ik (T)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jij/je ('you')</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>u ('you')</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hij ('he')</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zij/ze ('she')</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wij/we ('we')</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jullie ('you')</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zij/ze ('they')</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This brings us to the personal pronouns. Above here, you see all the forms for the subject. You'll notice that most forms with -ij in them also have a form with -e (like jij could also be je). The general rule is that you can always use the 'proper' form with -ij, but most Dutch people would use the -e form unless there's a special emphasis.

Another thing that might puzzle you is the form jullie for 'you'. This is the form for informal and plural (something like 'you guys') - for formal plural you should still use u. In short:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>formal informal</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>singular</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>plural</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vocabulary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>--------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>aan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>aangenaam</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de achternaam</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>doen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>getrouwd</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de gracht</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>heten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hoe</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ik</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jij/jje</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>komen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>leven</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>met</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het meisje</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de meisjesnaam</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de naam</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het nummer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het plein</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de straat</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>u</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>uit</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vandaan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de voornaam</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>waar</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>waarom</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wie</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wonen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zijn</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

- Before you move on to the next chapter you should study:
  - Grammar pages: verbs - general
  - Grammar pages: verbs - present
  - Lists & sounds: numbers
- Repeat this pronunciation exercise a few times (every first word is English, every second word is Dutch):
  'How' is hoe,
  'who' is wie,
  'we' is wij,
  'why' is waarom.
Lesson 3 - Alles goed?

Intro

This lesson deals with common greetings and small talk. Furthermore, you'll get some theory on adjectives (when you have to add an -e), learn all about the parts of the day and you'll be introduced to the art of Dutch time telling.

The Dutch greet each other informally with Hoi or Hallo, or (a bit) more formally with their versions of 'good morning', 'good afternoon', etcetera. A simple 'dag' is also used, though mostly it's followed by someone's name. In case one wants to be formal, someone could use the Dutch equivalents to 'Mister' and 'Misses': meneer and mevrouw. Note that mevrouw is used for both married and unmarried women.

The same word - dag - can be used to say goodbye - though in that case the -a- is much more stretched. Other current goodbyes are tot ziens (a bit formal) and doei (very informal).

Text 3.1 - Greetings

- Hallo
- Goedemorgen.
- Goedemiddag
- Goedenavond
- Goedenacht
- Dag meneer Jansen
- Tot ziens
- Doei

When meeting someone you know, you might show some interest in how someone is doing - even in Dutch this is a common thing to do. The commonly used phrases and replies are listed below. Because it's sometimes hard to translate literally, the meanings of the phrases are listed too.

The phrase Hoe gaat het ermee? can also be used without ermee (means literally 'with it') or with met je (means 'with you'). The same goes for Hoe is het ermee?
Text 3.2 -

Hoe gaat het?

- Hoe gaat het ermee? How are you?
- Alles goed? Is everything going well?
- Prima (I'm) fine, (everything's) great.
- En met jou? And (how are) you?
- Hoe is het met je? How are you?
- Ach, het gaat wel. Well, it could be better.

So please note that the phrase Het gaat wel does not mean that 'all goes well', even though the Dutch wel can in fact be translated as 'indeed'.

Adjective + -e...

Another thing you might have noticed: the word goed (means 'good') is also in words like goedemorgen. Indeed, goedemorgen literally translates as 'good morning' and it shows how fond the Dutch are of writing two words as one. Nevertheless it's quite exceptional that an adjective is attached to a noun like that: it is common, but only for noun combinations.

What's not exceptional: the adjective goed does have an extra -e- in goedemorgen. This is the case for most adjectives if standing before a noun. The only case in which it doesn't happen is when an adjective stands before a het-word and the article een is used (or geen, which could be seen as niet een).

The table down here might make this more clear: boek is taken as a het-word, pen is taken as a de-word and goed is used as the adjective before the noun:

de pen het boek
de goede pen het goede boek een goede pen een goed boek

Now this is not all there is to it yet. If you add an -e to an adjective, you get an extra syllable and if you studied the basic spelling and pronunciation (see grammar pages), you know that the spelling of the word might change, because there's an extra adjective.

Take, for example the adjectives groot (big) and dom (stupid). They both are one syllable words, the first one has a 'long' -o- and because this sound doesn't end the syllable (the t does) it has to be doubled. The -o- in the word dom though is a 'short' one, so it has to be single. The -m that follows it doesn't have to be doubled, because it's the end of a word, and the end of a Dutch word never has a double consonant.
Now when the -e is added, both words become two syllable words: gro-te and dom-me. The adjective groot looses an -o- because the first syllable now ends on a vowel and in that case it's automatically 'long' so it doesn't have to be doubled anymore. This would also happen to the word dom if we would just add the -e; it would become dome with a 'long' sounding -o- and we want to keep it short. Thus we add an -m-, which causes the syllable-split to be between the m's, so the -o- stays 'short'. In full sentences:

- De man is dom - het is een domme man.
- De man is groot - het is een grote man.

With the greetings, you've also more or less been introduced to the parts of the day (morning, afternoon, ...). In Dutch they're not that different from English, though evening and night might be used a little different from their Dutch equivalents:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>time</th>
<th>part</th>
<th>this ...</th>
<th>in the ...</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>06.00-18.00</td>
<td>de dag</td>
<td>vandaag</td>
<td>overdag</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>06.00-12.00</td>
<td>de morgen</td>
<td>vanmorgen 's morgens</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>de ochtend</td>
<td>vanochtend 's ochtends</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12.00-18.00</td>
<td>de middag</td>
<td>vanmiddag 's middags</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18.00-24.00</td>
<td>de avond</td>
<td>vanavond  's avonds</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>24.00-06.00</td>
<td>de nacht</td>
<td>vannacht  's nachts</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

By the way, the 's is a shortened version of the old Dutch article des. Like many other ancient forms (der, den, ter, ten ...) in modern Dutch it is only used in certain expressions.

In the table above here, you see the time indicated in a 24 hour digital form. In writing, the Dutch often do that, instead of using AM and PM equivalents. In speaking though, they use just twelve hour indications and add 's morgens, 's middags, 's avonds or 's nachts to it.

In short, time telling in Dutch is done as follows:

- For the full hour, the number is just followed by the word uur (means 'hour'): acht uur, negen uur,...
- Quarter (15 minutes) is kwart.
- Past the hour is over, before the hour is voor.
- Half is the same in Dutch: half...
- But in Dutch you count towards the next hour: half past six is half zeven in Dutch (you can try to get used this by remembering that half past six can actually be seen as halfway seven).
- between twenty past the hour and twenty to the next hour, you count using the half hour.
For most foreigners it takes some time to get used to this, but once you are, you see the logic of the system.

Perhaps this is of some help:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Text 3.4 - Tijd - time</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Hoe laat is het?</td>
<td>What time is it?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Het is negen uur</td>
<td>It's 09.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Het is tien over negen</td>
<td>It's 09.10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Het is kwart over negen</td>
<td>It's 09.15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Het is half tien</td>
<td>It's 09.30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Het is tien voor half tien</td>
<td>It's 09.20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Het is vijf over half tien</td>
<td>It's 09.35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Het is kwart voor tien</td>
<td>It's 09.45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Het is vijf voor tien</td>
<td>It's 09.55</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Vocabulary

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Word</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>alles</td>
<td>everything</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de avond</td>
<td>the evening</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de dag</td>
<td>the day</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dag</td>
<td>hello, bye</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>doei</td>
<td>bye (informal)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dom</td>
<td>stupid</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het half</td>
<td>the half</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hallo</td>
<td>hello</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het kwart</td>
<td>the quarter</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>laat</td>
<td>late</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>meneer (=mijnheer)</td>
<td>sir, mister</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>met (=mee)</td>
<td>with</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mevrouw</td>
<td>madam, miss, misses</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de middag</td>
<td>the afternoon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de morgen</td>
<td>the morning</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de nacht</td>
<td>the night</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>over</td>
<td>past</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>prima</td>
<td>fine, great</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tot</td>
<td>until</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tot ziens</td>
<td>goodbye</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het uur</td>
<td>the hour</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>voor</td>
<td>before, for, in front of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wel</td>
<td>indeed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zien</td>
<td>to see</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

More ...

- Before you move on to the next chapter you should study:
  - Grammar pages: adjectives (+ exercises)
  - Grammar pages: basic pronunciation and spelling (again)
- Try to train yourself in telling the time by telling for .00, .05, .10, .15, .20, .25, .30, .35, .40, .45, .50, and .55 minutes after every hour.
Lesson 4 - Mag ik twee pils?

Intro This lesson deals with ordering in restaurants and pubs, offering and accepting (or not accepting) drinks, and on how to say things like 'sorry', 'please' and 'thank you' in Dutch. Furthermore, there's some theory on small words that don't mean anything and there are some remarks on how to behave when visiting Dutch people.

In any Dutch shop, restaurant or cafe, somebody might approach you and say something that sounds like 'zecuma'. In fact, what they want to say is zegt u het maar - the most currently used phrase to indicate that you can tell them what you want to order or buy. The phrase is: zegt u het maar.

Also the word natuurlijk (means 'of course') is often pronounced as if it was something else, like 'tulek'. It could be an answer to your order or to your question if something is available.

Ordering however, is quite simple. You say what you want and let it be followed by alstublieft ('please') or you first say Mag ik (means 'Can I have') plus the item you want (note that in phrases like this there's often no 'have', just 'Can I' or 'May I' in Dutch).

Text 4.1 - Zegt u het maar

- Zegt u het maar
- Mag ik twee pils?.
- Een koffie en een thee, alstublieft.
- Heeft u warme chocola?
- Natuurlijk
- Nee, het spijt me, dat hebben we niet.

The phrase Het spijt me means 'I'm deeply sorry'. In situations that are not very formal also the English word 'sorry' will do very well.

The word alstublieft is in fact the formal form (it contains u) - alsjeblieft is the informal version. These two do not only mean 'please': they also mean something like 'here you are' and are used when something is being given to you. A natural reply would be one of the phrases that mean 'thank you': dank u wel (formal), dank je wel (informal) or bedankt (can be used in formal and informal situations). The word wel is optional: it makes the same difference as 'very much' does in 'thank you very much'.

20
Here are the phrases for please/here you are and thank you:

Text 4.2 - Alstublieft...
- Alstublieft
- Alsjeblieft.
- Kijkt u eens.
- Dank u wel
- Dank je
- Bedankt

In letters you can also read things like hartelijk dank ('profound thanks') or dank u vriendelijk ('thank you kindly') but they are hardly ever used in spoken Dutch.

In the first phrase in the first text - zegt u het maar - you also see one of those words that often occur in Dutch phrases without having a meaning. Or rather: they do have a meaning - if you look them up in the dictionary, you'll find something, but it doesn't apply in many phrases.

The most frequently used are: maar (can mean 'but'), eens (can mean 'once'), even (can mean 'shortly') and hoor (can mean 'hear'). To the first three you can often attribute the meaning of 'just' (zegt u het maar - 'just you say it') but that becomes hard when there's two or three of them (kijk maar eens - 'just look').

In general it's best to state that if they do not represent their literal meaning, they are there to make a sentence friendlier and smoother.

This doesn't apply to the word 'hoor', however. This particular word really doesn't have any meaning when it appears at the end of a sentence. It's just there as an extra sound to be able to give the sentence the right intonation, which could be severe, ironic, angry, or whatever else the speaker wants to express.

Here are some examples. Because these small words can have a subtle effect on the meaning, there's an English phrase to indicate what's being said.

Text 4.3 - Kom eens
- Kom eens even hier Just come here, (please)
- Ga maar, hoor. Just go (it's allright)
- Laat maar Just leave it.
- Laat maar zitten Leave it - keep the change
- Nee, hoor. No, (absolutely not).

If you visit a Dutch person, you'll probably be asked what you want to drink. The question will probably just be:
• Wat wil je drinken? ('what do you want to drink?' - watch out: willen = 'to want'),
• Koffie? ('coffee?') or the more formal
• Kan ik u iets te drinken aanbieden? ('can I offer you something to drink?')

You could reply with ja, lekker ('yes, (that would be) nice') if you want the thing you've been offered or nee, bedankt if you don't want it. There's no Dutch equivalent of 'no I'm fine, thank you' and you only say 'thank you' if you do not want it (so there's no such thing as 'yes, thank you') - in fact if you just say bedankt or dank u, a regular Dutchman would probably conclude that you do not want the thing he just offered ...

Like most western countries, in the Netherlands you will not be offered a lot to eat - on the contrary, the Dutch are very greedy on food. Older people in the Netherlands often have a special ritual concerning cookies: they take a bin with small cookies out of their cupboard to open it and offer you just one. After that, they close it and put it back in the cupboard.

It's very unusual to an opened bin on the table and it's very unpolite to take anything to eat that is not explicitly presented to you.

The Dutch are used drink loads of coffee, at any time. Sometimes they drink tee, though never with milk - if you're used to milk in your tee, you explicitly have to ask for it, even in most restaurants.

In their coffee they often pour some milk - they have special koffiemelk for it.

Here are some phrases you may find useful:

Text 4.4 - Kopje koffie?
• Kopje koffie?
• Wat wil je drinken?
• Kan ik u iets te drinken aanbieden?
• Suiker en melk?
• Alleen suiker
• Wil je koffie of thee?
• Iets fris, graag.

The last phrase means 'something without alcohol, please'. The word graag is quite often used instead of alstublieft/alsjeblief, meaning 'please', but it can't be used in a question.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Vocabulary</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>aanbieden</td>
<td>to offer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>alsjeblieft</td>
<td>please, here you are</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>alstublieft</td>
<td>please, here you are</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bedanken</td>
<td>to thank</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bedankt</td>
<td>thanks</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dank u/ju</td>
<td>thank you</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de chocola</td>
<td>the chocolate</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>drinken</td>
<td>to drink</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fris</td>
<td>fresh, cool, soft drinks</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>graag</td>
<td>please, favourable</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>horen</td>
<td>to hear</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>iets</td>
<td>something</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kijken</td>
<td>to look</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de koffie</td>
<td>the coffee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het kopje</td>
<td>the cup</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>laten</td>
<td>to let, to leave</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lekker</td>
<td>nice, tasty</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>maar</td>
<td>but, 'just'</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de melk</td>
<td>the milk</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mogen</td>
<td>to may, to can, to be allowed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>natuurlijk</td>
<td>of course</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de pils</td>
<td>the lager beer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spijten</td>
<td>to regret</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de suiker</td>
<td>the sugar</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de thee</td>
<td>the tee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>warm</td>
<td>warm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>willen</td>
<td>to want</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zeggen</td>
<td>to say</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zitten</td>
<td>to sit, to be</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

- Before you move on to the next chapter you should study:
  - Grammar pages: words like maar, eens and even (+ exercises)

You could also take a look at these pages - but at this level it would be to much to remember all the listed words and phrases, so just browse and pick what you think you might need:

  - Lists and sounds: Eating out - uit eten
  - Lists and sounds: List of drinks and dishes

- With the help of the above mentioned list of drinks and dishes and the phrases you learned in this lesson, you could imagine yourself, sitting in a restaurant and order. What would you say...?

  If you're in the Netherlands you could now just go for it and order away in a restaurant. If you're not, you could find a friend and 'simulate'...
Lesson 5 - Hoeveel kost dat?

Intro This lesson deals with shops, buying, selling, prices and money. There will be some attention for diminutives and for sentence structures in Dutch.

You're already familiar with zegt u het maar - the most currently used phrase not only in restaurants and pubs, but even more in shops. Telling what you want to buy is just as easy as ordering: you say what you want and let it be followed by alstublieft ('please') or you first say Mag ik (means 'Can I have') plus the item you want.

The rest of the conversation in a shop mostly contains just standard phrases like Anders nog iets? ('anything else?'), Dat was het ('that's all') and Hoeveel is het? ('How much is it?).

Here's a standard kind of conversation:

Text 5.1 - Een kilo tomaten

- Zegt u het maar
- Mag ik een kilo tomaten?
- Mag het ietsje meer zijn?
- Ja, hoor.
- Kijkt u eens
- Anders nog iets?
- Nee, dat was het.
- Hoeveel is het?
- € 4,10
- Alstublieft
- Heeft u er een dubbeltje bij?
- Nee, sorry. Ik heb helemaal geen kleingeld.

The phrase Mag het ietsje meer zijn? means 'May it be a little bit more?' (strange enough it's never asked if it can be a bit less). In fact iets already means 'a bit' (also: 'something' like in anders nog iets which means 'anything else') - the -je suffix makes it even smaller.

This -je suffix can also be -tje, -etje or -pje (often after an m) and is called 'diminutive', or in Dutch verkleining. It's used quite a lot in Dutch, either to make things smaller or to make things look more innocent. A 'little book', for example, is een boekje, a 'small tabel' is een tafeltje and a little €ower een bloempje. Another example: a business like appointment is een afspraak, but a date is een afspraakje - so here the -je is used to make it look "more innocent" (even if it's the big date you've been trying to get for years...).
Diminutives may also occur in certain situations or expressions where they do not seem to have a function. In a shop, a kilo might become een kilootje, but it's still the same 1000 gram; you might be addressed as meneertje or mevrouwtje while you might not be very small or innocent; a cup of coffee will mostly be een kopje koffie, no matter how big it is. In those cases the diminutives are just to be considered part of the expression or perhaps to express some kind of sympathy.

The word dubbeltje, as used above (Heeft u er een dubbeltje bij? - 'Do you have 10 cents with it?') even doesn't have a non-diminutive form.

The diminutives are also used a lot by foreigners, because a diminutive is always a het-word.

This brings us to Dutch coins and notes. Here's an overview:

Text 5.2 - Geld

- De cent - 1 cent (1)
- De stuiver - 5 cent (2)
- Het dubbeltje - 10 cent (3)
- De euro - € 1,- (4)
- Het vijfje - € 5,- (5)
- Het tientje - € 10,- (6)
- Het briefje van 20 - € 20,- (7)
- Het briefje van 50 - € 50,- (8)
- Het briefje van 100 - € 100,- (9)
- Het briefje van 1000 - € 1000,- (10)
Additional remarks:

1. The euro sign is €.
2. Between euro’s and cents, there's a comma, not a dot: dots are used for thousands, comma's for the separation of decimals.
3. The word briefje means literally 'note', so it can also refer to a memo.
4. In spoken Dutch, euro and cent are used only as singulars, unless one speaks of coins. So € 100,15 is honderd euro en vijftien cent.
5. A Dutchman mostly leaves cent away, though: honderd euro vijftien.

The phrases you've learned by now, have two kinds of sentence structures:

1. subject - verb - rest
   - This is a basic sentence structure.
   - It's used in simple statements.
   - Example:

     ```
     Ik heb helemaal geen kleingeld
     ```

2. verb - subject - rest
   - This is an inverted sentence structure
   - It's used when: - the sentence is a direct question or request, - if something comes before the subject, and it's not one word, separated by a comma (like oh, ah, ja, nee, meneer, mevrouw, etcetera).
   - Examples:

     ```
     Mag ik een kilo tomaten?
     's Morgens drink ik koffie
     ```

4. For English speakers this structure is not that hard as long as it's a question: in English you do the same thing, although the verb you start the question with is quite often 'to do'. In Dutch you don't: instead of 'do you want coffee', you simply ask 'Want you coffee'.
5. The inversion if something comes before the subject is much harder to get used to. It's important though, to get it right when you're still at the first level, because later on, it just gets harder.
6. Quite often, the thing that comes before the subject is a statement of time (like 's morgens in the above sentence) or place.
Another thing in Dutch sentence structure that's hard to get used to: if there's two verbs, the second one is usually placed at the end. You might already have noticed this in Mag het ietsje meer zijn?: the first verb, Mag ('May/Can'), is at the beginning (inverted structure) and the second one, zijn ('be'), is at the end.

Here's two more examples:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Wilt u misschien iets drinken?</th>
<th>Want you perhaps something to drink?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>verb #1 subject rest ...</td>
<td>verb #2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Ik wil een kilo appels kopen</th>
<th>I want a kilo apples to buy</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>subject verb #1 rest ...</td>
<td>verb #2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The above mentioned kilo is well known as being 1000 grams. Because some other words concerning weights might cause some confusion, here's is listing:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Gewicht</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>• een kilo = 1000 gram = 2 pond</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• een pond = 500 gram = 5 ons</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• een ons = 100 gram = 1/10 kilo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• anderhalf pond = 750 gram = 3/4 kilo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vocabulary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>anderhalf</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>anders</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de appel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bij</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de brief</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het briefje</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de cent</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het dubbeltje</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>er</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de/het gram</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de euro</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>helemaal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hoeveel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de/het kilo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het kleingeld</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kopen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>meer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nog</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de/het ons</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de/het pond</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de stuiver</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het tientje</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>van</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het vijfje</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

- Before you move on to the next chapter you should just take a look at (don't do the exercises yet, save them until you're at level 2):
  - Grammar pages: constructing sentences
  - Grammar pages: verb couples

You could also take a look at these pages - but at this level it would be too much to remember all the listed words and phrases, so just browse and pick what you think you might need:

  - Lists and sounds: Shopping - Boodschappen doen (1)
  - Lists and sounds: Shopping - Boodschappen doen (2)
  - Lists and sounds: List of shops

- With the help of the above mentioned lists and the phrases you learned in this lesson, you could make yourself a list of things you would like to buy and imagine the conversation that would take place in the shops (of course, you shouldn't go to the supermarket ...).
Lesson 6 - Tweede straat links

Intro This lesson deals with addressing people, and asking and giving directions. There will also be a lot of attention for the present tense of verbs - both regular and irregular forms.

If you're lost somewhere in the Netherlands, you might want to ask someone for directions and the first thing you want is to address someone without being too impolite.

That's probably not going to be very hard: besides the fact that the Dutch don't consider someone impolite very quickly, addressing someone in Dutch can be very simple, since you could just use a simple 'sorry'. If you want to say a bit more than that, you could try Pardon, meneer or Pardon, mevrouw (note that in Dutch the emphasis is on the last syllable!), perhaps followed by Mag ik u iets vragen? ('may I ask you something?).

The reply you get is mostly a friendly Ja, hoor, Natuurlijk or Zegt u het maar, after which you can ask your question.

Your question could have different forms:

Text 6.1 - Ik zoek ...

- Waar is het Vondelpark?
- Kunt u mij vertellen waar het Rembrandtplein is?
- Weet u waar de Vermeerweg is?
- Ik zoek de Ruysdaelstraat.
- Ik ben op zoek naar de Herengracht.

In fact Ik zoek and Ik ben op zoek would both be translated as 'I'm looking for'. The other phrases should be quite clear ('Where is..., Can you tell me where ..., Do you know where ...').
Here's a complete conversation:

Text 6.2 - Pardon meneer ...

- Pardon meneer, mag ik u iets vragen?
- Ja, hoor.
- Weet u waar de Vermeerweg is?
- Ehmmm, even kijken...
- ... u moet hier rechtdoor...
- ... bij de stoplichten gaat u rechtsaf...
- ... dan bij de volgende kruising weer rechts...
- ... en dan de tweede straat links.
- Dank u wel, meneer.
- Graag gedaan.

Some additional notes:

- The phrase even kijken, is often used like the English 'let's see', to take some time to think.
- The phrase Graag gedaan means literally 'done with pleasure' and has the same function as the English 'My pleasure'. Another phrase that's frequently used as a reply to someone thanking is the more formal tot uw dienst ('at your service').
- For more phrases on 'showing the way', see 'lists & sounds'.
- The words for right, left and straight on are: rechts, links, rechtdoor. You could translate rechtsaf and linksaf as 'to the right' and 'to the left'.
- The Dutch words for 'first, second, third, fourth, fifth' are: eerste, tweede, derde, vierde, vijfde. In fact for all the numbers up until 'nineteen' you add -de (like in zesde) except for 'one' (eerste) and 'eight' (achtste). The rest gets -ste.

In the phrases above there two verbs - kunnen, mogen and moeten - that form, together with wollen and zullen a group that's quite particular. First, they can be used on their own, where you would expect another verb. You might have noticed that in the phrases on shopping and ordering: in Dutch Mag ik een appelsap is sufficient to get an appeljuice, while in English you would say 'May I have an appeljuice'. The same thing is seen in Ik moet naar het toilet which means I have to go to the toilet'.

Second, these verbs are - except for moeten - irregular in present tense. Fortunately, together with hebben and zijn, they're the only ones.

To know what makes them irregular, of course, you first have to know what happens to regular verbs in Dutch - and that's explained in a few lines:
• from the infinitive of the verb, you take of the -en,
• you take care that what's left does not end on a -v- or -z- (change them to -f- and -s-) or on a double consonant (just make it single),
• if there's a long vocal in the infinitive - like the -o- in _lopen_ (to walk') - you have to double it to keep it long - like _loop_,
• now you have the form for the first person singular,
• for second and third person singular, add a -t,
• however, you don't have a double -t-at the end of a verb: _eet_ does not get an additional -t in _jij eet_.
• for plurals, just use the infinitive form, so including the -en,
• for _jij_ there's something exceptional happening when subject and verb are switched (inversion): the form loses the -t. So, for _schrijven_ (to write') it would be:

\[ \text{jij schrijft - schrijf jij} \]

This happens only for _jij_ or _je_, not for _u_, _hij_, _zij_ and _het_: they keep their -t.

Here are a few regular verbs: _fietsen_ (to ride a bicycle), _geloven_ (to believe - watch what happens to the -o- and the -v-), _stoppen_ (to stop) and _eten_ (to eat - no extra -t here)

Text 6.3 - Present - regular verbs

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Infinitive</th>
<th>fietsen</th>
<th>geloven</th>
<th>stoppen</th>
<th>eten</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ik</td>
<td>fiets</td>
<td>gelooft</td>
<td>stop</td>
<td>eet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jij</td>
<td>fiest</td>
<td>gelooft</td>
<td>stopt</td>
<td>eet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U</td>
<td>fiest</td>
<td>gelooft</td>
<td>stopt</td>
<td>laat</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hij/zij/het</td>
<td>fiest</td>
<td>gelooft</td>
<td>stopt</td>
<td>eet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wij</td>
<td>fietsen</td>
<td>geloven</td>
<td>stoppen</td>
<td>eten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jullie</td>
<td>fietsen</td>
<td>geloven</td>
<td>stoppen</td>
<td>eten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zij</td>
<td>fietsen</td>
<td>geloven</td>
<td>stoppen</td>
<td>eten</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The irregular verbs _kunnen_, _zullen_, _willen_ and _mogen_ look like this:

Text 6.4 - Present - irregular verbs

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Infinitive</th>
<th>kunnen</th>
<th>zullen</th>
<th>willen</th>
<th>mogen</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ik</td>
<td>kan</td>
<td>zal</td>
<td>wil</td>
<td>mag</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jij</td>
<td>kan/kunt/zal/zult</td>
<td>wil/wilt</td>
<td>mag</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U</td>
<td>kan/kunt/zal/zult</td>
<td>wil/wilt</td>
<td>mag</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hij/zij/het</td>
<td>kan</td>
<td>zal</td>
<td>wil</td>
<td>mag</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wij</td>
<td>kunnen</td>
<td>zullen</td>
<td>willen</td>
<td>mogen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jullie</td>
<td>kunnen</td>
<td>zullen</td>
<td>willen</td>
<td>mogen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zij</td>
<td>kunnen</td>
<td>zullen</td>
<td>willen</td>
<td>mogen</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

So, for three of the verbs there are two forms you can chose for second person singular. Nevertheless, it's easiest to remember just that you can use _kan_, _zal_, _wil_ en _mag_ for all singulars.
Vocabulary

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Dutch</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>de appelsap</td>
<td>the apple juice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de dienst</td>
<td>the service</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(de) eerste</td>
<td>first</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>eten</td>
<td>to eat</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fietsten</td>
<td>to ride a bicycle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>geloven</td>
<td>to believe</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kunnen</td>
<td>to can</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>links</td>
<td>left</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>linksaf</td>
<td>to the left</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mij</td>
<td>me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>moeten</td>
<td>to must, to have</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pardon</td>
<td>(I beg your) pardon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>recht</td>
<td>straight</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rechtstuur</td>
<td>straight on</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rechts</td>
<td>right (direction)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rechtsaf</td>
<td>to the right</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>schrijven</td>
<td>to write</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het stoplicht</td>
<td>the traffic light</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>stoppen</td>
<td>to stop</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het toilet</td>
<td>the toilet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>uw</td>
<td>your</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vertellen</td>
<td>to tell</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vragen</td>
<td>to ask</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>weg</td>
<td>the road, way</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>weten</td>
<td>to know</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zoeken</td>
<td>to look for</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zullen</td>
<td>to shall, will</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

- Before you move on to the next chapter you should study:
  - Grammar pages: Verbs - present
  - Lists and sounds: Showing the way
- You can exercise giving directions by trying to describe the way to your work, the nearest bus station, the nearest supermarket and the post office in Dutch.
- Try to make a habit of giving all the forms in the present tense for every new verb you learn (kijken - ik kijk - jij kijkt - hij/zij kijkt - wij kijken - ...). You might also give all these forms in an inverted sequence (kijken - kijk ik? - kijk jij? - ...).
Lesson 7 - Ga je mee?

Intro

This lesson teaches you how to invite someone to go out and how to respond to an invitation. Furthermore, you'll be introduced to the past and perfect tense (both regular and irregular) and to separable verbs.

If you feel like going out and you like to invite someone to come along, there are a few phrases you could use:

Text 7.1 - Zullen we ...

- Zullen we naar de bioscoop gaan?
- Ga je mee naar het theater?
- Ga je mee iets drinken?
- Heb je zin om naar een concert te gaan?
- Laten we vanavond uitgaan.

You can translate Zullen we bij 'Shall we...' and Laten we... by 'Let's...', but the other phrases are a bit more difficult.

Ga je mee translated word by word would be 'Go you along'. If it's combined with an activity in the form of a verb, the verb is simply the infinitive and you do not need a preposition. This results in a type of phrase you hear a lot in Dutch, for the Dutch make verbs out of a lot of activities. This often surprises English speakers. For example, inviting someone to go and play tennis, have lunch or enjoy a picknick would be:

- Ga je mee tennissen?
- Ga je mee lunchen?
- Ga je mee picknicken?

If someone invites you like this and you can't accept, you could simply say ik kan niet ('I can't') or Nee, sorry, ik moet... ('No, sorry, I have to ...') and pick whatever you need:

- ... mijn haar wasen
- ... naar de Nederlandse les
- ... babysitten
- ... huiswerk maken
- ... vroeg naar bed
- ... naar de verjaardag van mijn tante

Of course, you can also accept an invitation, for example with an enthusiastic 'Ja, leuk!', 'Graag' or 'Doen we!'.

Here's a complete conversation on this theme:
Text 7.2 - Naar de film

- Heb je zin om naar de film te gaan?
- Welke film?
- Die nieuwe film van Paul Verhoeven.
- Ja, leuk! Wanneer?
- Morgenavond?
- Nee, sorry, morgenavond kan ik niet.
- Zaterdagavond dan misschien?
- Even kijken ... ja, dan kan ik wel.
- Goed! Hoe laat spreken we af?
- Om 8 uur?
- Prima. Waar? Bij café Helmers?
- Goed. Afgesproken.
- Zal ik kaartjes reserveren?
- Ja, doe jij dat maar.

The word Afgesproken ('agreed') is the past participle of an irregular and separable verb. This looks like a lot of grammar, but it still fits in one chapter: below here, all this is going to be explained.

On 'talking about the past': you can do this in Dutch like you can do it in English: by using the past tense and by using the perfect tense. And the verbs you use for this can be regular or irregular.

First the regular ones. For finding the right form for these, you use the first person singular in present (mostly the infinitive form without -en). So for fietsen, you take fietse and for rennen you take ren (see the previous chapter for remarks on double vocals or consonants and on what happens to -v- and -z-).

And this is what happens to these verbs in the past (yellow) and perfect (blue) tense:
So, the verb fietsen gets -de(n) for the past and ge- plus -d for the perfect tense, while rennen gets -te(n) for the past and ge- plus -t for the perfect tense. The thing that happens to fietsen happens to all the regular verbs that end on -t, -k, -f, -s, -ch and -p when the -en is taken of the infinitive (to remember these, the Dutch use the word t koeftschip and what happens to rennen, happens to the rest of the verbs.

The form of the verb used in the perfect tense is called the past participle. This form - used together with hebben, zijn or worden ('to be', 'to become') - usually starts wit ge-, but not always: if a verb (already) starts with non-seperable prefixes like ge-, her-, be-, ver-, ont- or mis-, it does not get (an additional) ge-.

Unfortunately the verbs that are used most, are irregular (same as in English...), and you have to learn those one by one from the list at the grammar pages.

On the other hand, because they're used that much, most students develop a kind of intuition on irregular verbs even before they learned the whole list. This probably has to do with the fact that there are still some regularities:

- verbs with the same vowels often have the same conjugation (blijven, blijf, gebleven - krijgen, kreeg, gekregen - kijken, keek, gekeken),
- most past participles get -en.

A lot of regular and irregular verbs get prefixes in Dutch and mostly those prefixes are to be seperated (and put at the end of the phrase) in simple present and past. These prefixes often change the meaning of a verb quite drastic, but they don't change the conjugation.

A few examples: nakijken ('to check'), doorgaan ('to continue') and opstaan ('to stand up, to get up, to rise').

Text 7.4 - Seperable verbs

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>infinitive</th>
<th>present</th>
<th>past</th>
<th>perfect</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>nakijken</td>
<td>ik kijk de tekst na</td>
<td>ik keek de tekst na</td>
<td>ik heb de tekst nagekeken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>doorgaan</td>
<td>wij gaan niet door</td>
<td>wij gingen niet door</td>
<td>wij zijn niet doorgegaan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>opstaan</td>
<td>hij staat om 7 uur op</td>
<td>hij stond om 7 uur op</td>
<td>hij is om 7 uur opgestaan</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
So: if separated from the verb, the prefix usually comes at the end of the sentence and when reunited with the verb in the past participle (usually the form starting with ge-), the two are written as one again.

By the way, the prefix always get an emphasis in the verb (doorgaan) or in the sentence (Hij gaat niet door). Only non-separable prefixes do not get any emphasis.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Vocabulary</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>afspreken</td>
<td>to agree</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>babysitten</td>
<td>to babysit</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het bed</td>
<td>the bed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de bioscoop</td>
<td>the cinema</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het café</td>
<td>the pub</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het concert</td>
<td>the concert</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dan</td>
<td>than, then</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de film</td>
<td>the movie</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>gaan</td>
<td>to go</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het haar</td>
<td>the hair</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het huiswerk</td>
<td>the homework</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het kaartje</td>
<td>the ticket, the card</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de les</td>
<td>the lesson</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>leuk</td>
<td>nice, cute</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lopen</td>
<td>to walk</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lunchen</td>
<td>to have lunch</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>maken</td>
<td>to make</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mee/met</td>
<td>with, along</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>misschien</td>
<td>maybe, perhaps</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>naar</td>
<td>to, at</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nieuw</td>
<td>new</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>picknicken</td>
<td>to have a picknick</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rennen</td>
<td>to run</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>reserveren</td>
<td>to book</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spelen</td>
<td>to play</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tennissen</td>
<td>to play tennis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het theater</td>
<td>the theater</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>uitgaan</td>
<td>to go out</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vroeg</td>
<td>early</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wassen</td>
<td>to wash</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de zin</td>
<td>the desire, the sentence</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

- Before you move on to the next chapter you should study
  - Grammar pages: Verbs - past
  - Grammar pages: Verbs - perfect
  - Grammar pages: Irregular verbs
  - Grammar pages: Exercises - Verbs
  - Grammar pages: On seperable and non-seperable verbs (+ exercises)

- You could exercise inviting someone by finding another student and inviting him/her to the theater, movies, etcetera. You could agree that the invited person turns down the invitation with a reasonable excuse.

- Try to exercise past and perfect tenses by changing present tense sentences you hear into past and perfect.
Lesson 8 - Momentje...

The first thing you should know about phoning in the Netherlands is that a lot of Dutch people find it quite rude that some people answer the phone without saying their names. So don't answer with Hallo, Ja? or with your phone number, but with Met xxx, U spreekt met xxx or xxx, goedemorgen (or -middag or -avond).

Text 8.1 - Met Kees Vermeulen...

- Met Kees Vermeulen, goedenavond.
- Goedenavond, met Katja.
- Ha, dag Katja. Alles goed?
- Ja hoor, prima. En met jou?
- Uitstekend.
- Zeg, is Ineke er ook?
- Ik zal even kijken. Momentje ...
- ... nee, het spijt me, Ineke is net weg.
- Weet je ook hoe laat ze thuis is?
- Ik heb geen idee.
- Kun je vragen of ze me terugbelt?
- Ja, dat is goed.
- Ik ben tot twaalf uur wakker.
- Ik zal het doorgeven
- Goed, bedankt.
- Graag gedaan hoor. Dag Katja.
- Tot ziens.

It's quite common to ask Is ... er ook, while ook just means 'too, also' and does not really make any more sense then saying Tot ziens at the end of a telephone conversation with someone you'll probably hear before you see him or her. In the case of ook: just don't translate it if it doesn't make any sense - it means something like 'by the way...'. In case of tot ziens: to most Dutch people, it seems less silly to use this common way of saying goodbye, than to use something like 'tot horens' - though some Dutch people do use this.

Just to check if you got it right, here's the translation:

- (you're speaking) with Kees Vermeulen, good evening.
- Good evening, (you're speaking) with Katja.
• Hey, hi Katja. Everything o.k.?
• Yes, fine. And you?
• Excellent.
• Is Ineke there?
• I'll take a look. One moment ...
• ... no, I'm sorry. Ineke has just gone out.
• Do you know what time she's (going to be) home?
• I've no idea.
• Can you ask if she (could) return my call ('calls me back')
• Yes, that's o.k.
• I'll be awake until twelve.
• I'll pass it (the message) on.
• O.k., thanks.
• My pleasure. Bye Katja.
• Bye.

If you call a company, of course the phone is picked up with the company name, often followed by the name of the department (afdeling) and person. If you want to know what phrases to use to get to someone in a company, go to 'lists & sounds' and click on 'Phoning'.

Up until the 1980's telephone and mail services were exclusively delivered by the Dutch PTT. At the end of the 80's, this company was completely privatized (so it's no longer related to the government) and the telephone and postal services were separated: the phone company is now called PTT Telecom and the postal services are into KPN (Koninklijke PTT Nederland).

As far as phoning is concerned, there is quite some competition now. But for regular postal services there hardly is, except for express mail. The regular mail boxes are emptied by KPN and the stamps on the letters are sold by the same company.

Some mail related words and phrases you might need:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Text 8.2 - Mail</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>het postkantoor</td>
<td>the post office</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mag ik tien postzegels van 80 cent?</td>
<td>Can I have ten 80 cent stamps?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deze brieven moeten naar het buitenland.</td>
<td>These letters are to be going abroad</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wat voor postzegel moet er op deze brief?</td>
<td>What stamp should be on this letter?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ik wil dit pakje aangetekend versturen.</td>
<td>I want to send this package by registered mail</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>per luchtpost</td>
<td>by air mail</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>per expresse</td>
<td>by express mail</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>drukwerk</td>
<td>printed paper</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>port betaald</td>
<td>postage paid</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de postbus</td>
<td>P.O. Box</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
- Op brievenbussen:          On postboxes:
- streekpost               local mail
- overige bestemmingen    other destinations
- Hoe laat wordt de brievenbus geleegd?  At what time the postbox is being emptied?

In the phrases above, you can see the major two different kinds of plurals: on -s and on -en in postzegels and bestemmingen. Here's the main rule for plurals - for more details, please study the pages on plural in the grammar section:

- Words that end on a syllable that includes a 'toneless -e' (like in de), usually get an -s:
  - de tafel - de tafels
  - de vader - de vaders
  - de haven - de havens
- Words that end on a vocal usually get an -s with an apostrophe (’) to keep the sound 'long':
  - de taxi - de taxi’s
  - de agenda - de agenda’s
  - de radio - de radio’s
- Other words usually get -en:
  - het boek - de boeken
  - de krant - de kranten
  - de vrouw - de vrouwen

In text 2, this sentence may have drawn your attention:

Hoe laat wordt de brievenbus geleegd?

This is called a 'passive construction'. In English you use forms like '... is being...', '...has been ...', when in Dutch you use the verb worden (more or less 'to become') or the verb zijn (for the perfect tense).

Here's an overview, comparing active phrases to passive equivalents. What happens in the first three sets is, that a dog is biting a man - in the last three, the man beats the dog:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Active</th>
<th>Passive</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>De hond bijt de man</td>
<td>De man wordt gebeten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>De hond beet de man</td>
<td>De man werd gebeten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>De hond heeft de man gebeten</td>
<td>De man is gebeten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>De man slaat de hond</td>
<td>De hond wordt geslagen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>De man sloeg de hond</td>
<td>De hond werd geslagen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>De man heeft de hond geslagen</td>
<td>De hond is geslagen</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The passive sentences would be translated in English as follows:

- De man wordt gebeten - The man is being bitten.
- De man werd gebeten - The man was being bitten.
- De man is gebeten - The man has been bitten.
- De hond wordt geslagen - The dog is being beaten.
- De hond werd geslagen - The dog was being beaten.
- De hond is geslagen - The dog has been beaten.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Vocabulary</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>aantekenen</td>
<td>to register (mail)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de agenda</td>
<td>the agenda, planner</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de bestemming</td>
<td>the destination</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>betalen</td>
<td>to pay</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bijten</td>
<td>to bite</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de brievenbus</td>
<td>the postbox</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het buitenland</td>
<td>foreign countries</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het drukwerk</td>
<td>printed paper</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de expresse</td>
<td>express mail</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de haven</td>
<td>the harbour</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de hond</td>
<td>the dog</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het idee</td>
<td>the idea</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>legen</td>
<td>to empty</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de luchtpost</td>
<td>air mail</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het moment</td>
<td>the moment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>net</td>
<td>just</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ook</td>
<td>also</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>overig</td>
<td>other</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het pakje</td>
<td>the packet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>per</td>
<td>per, by</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de port</td>
<td>the postage</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de postbus</td>
<td>the P.O. box</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het postkantoor</td>
<td>the post office</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de postzegel</td>
<td>the stamp</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de radio</td>
<td>the radio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>slaan</td>
<td>to beat</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de streekpost</td>
<td>local mail</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de tafel</td>
<td>the table</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de taxi</td>
<td>the taxi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>terug</td>
<td>back, returned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>thuis</td>
<td>home, at home</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>uitstekend</td>
<td>excellent</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de vader</td>
<td>the father</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>versturen</td>
<td>to send away</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wakker</td>
<td>awake</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>weg</td>
<td>away</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

- Before you move on to the next chapter you should study
  - Lists & sounds: Phoning
  - Grammar pages: On plural (+ exercises)
- You could exercise phoning by finding another student and practice simple phone calls in Dutch.
- Try to exercise passive sentence constructions by changing as many active phrases to passive ones for a while.
Lesson 9 - Invullen in blokletters

This lesson teaches you how to give detailed information about yourself (especially when using forms). You'll also learn about reflexive verbs and you'll get a complete overview of all kinds of pronouns.

Civil servants (ambtenaren) in the Netherlands can sometimes be very helpful to foreigners, trying to speak clearly and use as little difficult expressions as they can. But mostly they're like most of their colleagues in other countries: having little patience (while asking a lot ...), speaking very quick, using a lot of expressiveness that are even hard to understand by Dutch people.

It helps though, if you know what they could be saying or asking. Here's a standard kind of conversation to give you a few words and phrases that might be of some help:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Text 9.1 - Wat is uw naam?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>• Wat is uw naam?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Smits, Karel Anton Smits.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Kunt u uw achternaam voor me spelden?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Ja, s-m-i-t-s</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Dank u wel. Wat is uw adres?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Vermeerstraat 12, Amsterdam.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• En de postcode?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• 1016 XS</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Wanneer bent u geboren?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Ik ben geboren op 20 augustus 1956</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Wat is uw beroep?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Ik ben autoverkoper.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Bent u getrouwd?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Ja</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Heeft u kinderen?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Ja, ik heb een zoon en een dochter.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Wat is uw nationaliteit?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Ik ben Nederlander.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For spelling your name, it's important that you studied the alphabet (see pronunciation page in the grammar section), for errors are easily made (especially on a, e and i).

Of course you don't have that problem when filling in (/out) a form. Further down you'll find an example of a form with the data of the above mentioned Mr. Smits. But first some notes on these data:
• Note that in Dutch you write or mention day-month-year when a date is asked.
• Try to remember Ik ben geboren... as well as you can: a lot of English speakers make embarrassing mistakes on this phrase ("Ik was geboord"...).
• Addresses in the Netherlands are written as follows:
  Name
  Street Number
  Zipcode City
• Couples that are samenwonend ('living together') have practically the same rights and duties as those who are married. And for gay or lesbian couples it's the same story (they can also get married in the Netherlands).
• A girorekening (Postbank account) has less numbers than a bankrekening (regular bank account) but furthermore nowadays it's the same type of account with the same possibilities.

---

Text 9.2 - Formulier

Achternaam : Smits
Voornamen : Karel, Anton
Adres : Vermeerstraat 12
Postcode : 1016 XS
Woonplaats : Amsterdam
Telefoon : 020-6112243
Fax : 020-6694989
Beroep : Autoverkoper
Werkgever : Van Sorge Automobielen BV
Nationaliteit : Nederlands
Geboortedatum : 20-08-1956
Geboorteplaats: Amsterdam
Geboorteland : Nederland
Geslacht : man
Burgerlijke staat: gehuwd
Giro-/bankrekening : 44.23.15.9
Kenteken van de auto: RH-60-FH
Ik wil me wel aanmelden als nieuw lid.

Ik wil graag informatie toegestuurd krijgen.

Opmerkingen:

Plaats: Internet

Datum: 22 juli 1998

Handtekening: xxxx

In the form above, there is one sentence that contains a reflexive verb: Ik wil me wel/niet aanmelden als nieuw lid. The infinitive here, is zich aanmelden (to check in, to register): if the dictionary states that zich ('oneself') belongs to a verb it means it's a reflexive one. This is a kind of verb that requires the subject to be an object too. In English, you can do this with some verbs (I'm washing myself, I find myself ..., I'm exerting myself), but in Dutch you have to do this to quite a lot of verbs.

A few examples:

- zich herinneren - to remember
- zich schamen - to be ashamed
- zich vergissen - to be mistaken
- zich verheugen op - to look forward to
- zich voorstellen - to imagine

Some other verbs can be reflexive: they require an object and this could be the subject. Examples:

- (zich) bewegen - to move
- (zich) scheren - to shave
- (zich) wassen - to wash

Here are some phrases with these verbs. Note that the reflexive pronoun is always placed after the first verb:
Text 9.3 - Reflexive verbs (examples)

Ik herinner me zijn naam niet.
Zij schaamde zich diep voor haar fout.
Hij heeft zich helemaal vergist.
Zij zal zich verheugen op haar huwelijk.
Kun je je voorstellen hoe zwaar zijn leven is?
Hij kan zich niet meer bewegen.
Zij heeft zich vandaag nog niet geschoren.
Hij wast zich elke ochtend.

The reflexive pronouns you need for the reflexive verbs are listed below. And while we're at it, we might as well take a look at object and possessive pronouns as well:

Text 9.4 - Pronouns

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>subject</th>
<th>object</th>
<th>possessive</th>
<th>reflexive</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ik</td>
<td>mij</td>
<td>mijn</td>
<td>me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jij</td>
<td>jou</td>
<td>jouw</td>
<td>je</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>u</td>
<td>u</td>
<td>uw</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hij</td>
<td>hem</td>
<td>zijn</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zij</td>
<td>haar</td>
<td>haar</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het</td>
<td>het</td>
<td>zijn</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wij</td>
<td>ons</td>
<td>ons/ons/ze</td>
<td>ons</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jullie</td>
<td>jullie</td>
<td>jullie</td>
<td>je</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zij</td>
<td>ze</td>
<td>hun</td>
<td>hun</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A few notes on this:

- Many pronouns have two versions: one for regular use and one to use if the pronoun has a specific emphasis (the ‘proper’ version):
  - mij and mijn are usually me and m’n
  - jij, jou and jouw are usually je
    (Herinner jij je jouw verjaardag? - Herinner je je je verjaardag?)
  - zijn is usually z’n
  - het is usually ’t
  - zij is usually ze
  - wij is usually we
- The same goes for ze and hun (object, third person plural): normally you would use ze, but if you need a special emphasis, you use hun.
- Officially, for object third person plural (‘them’) there are two forms: hun and hen. The grammar rules state that
  - hen should be used for direct object and after prepositions and
  - hun should be used for indirect object.
This is a purely artificial difference though: most Dutch people don’t get it right - in colloquial Dutch hun is mostly used for all object forms.

- In spoken Dutch, you even hear hun being used as a subject form for third person plural. This is still considered absolutely wrong, though.
- The possessive ons is used for het-nouns (ons huis) and onze for de-nouns (onze tuin).
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Dutch</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>achter</td>
<td>after, behind</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het adres</td>
<td>the address</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de ambtenaar</td>
<td>the civil servant</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de autovekoper</td>
<td>the car salesman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het beroep</td>
<td>the profession</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(zich) bewegen</td>
<td>to move</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>burgerlijk</td>
<td>civil</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de datum</td>
<td>the date</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de dochter</td>
<td>the daughter</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>elk</td>
<td>each</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de fax</td>
<td>the fax</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de fout</td>
<td>the mistake</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de geboorte</td>
<td>the birth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>geboren (ik ben...)</td>
<td>born (I was)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het geslacht</td>
<td>the gender</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de handtekening</td>
<td>the signature</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zich herinneren</td>
<td>to remember</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het huwelijk</td>
<td>the marriage</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het kenteken</td>
<td>the (car) registration number</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het land</td>
<td>the land, the country</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het leven</td>
<td>life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>meer</td>
<td>more, anymore</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de nationaliteit</td>
<td>the nationality</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de Nederlander</td>
<td>the Dutchman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de plaats</td>
<td>the place, also: the town</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de postcode</td>
<td>the zipcode, postal code</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de rekening</td>
<td>the account</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>samenwonen</td>
<td>to live together</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zich schamen</td>
<td>to be ashamed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(zich) scheren</td>
<td>to shave</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spellen</td>
<td>to spell</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de staat</td>
<td>the state</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de telefoon</td>
<td>the telephone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>trouwen</td>
<td>to get married</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vandaag</td>
<td>today</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zich vergissen</td>
<td>to be mistaken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de verjaardag</td>
<td>the birthday</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zich verheugen op</td>
<td>to look forward to</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zich voorstellen</td>
<td>to imagine</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

- Grammar pages: Pronunciation & spelling (again)
- Grammar pages: Pronouns (+ exercises)
- Grammar pages: Reflexive verbs (+ exercises)

- Imagine some people around you - you can use some pieces of paper on which you can write their names: let there be one male, one female, one couple, one person you can be informal to and one you can be formal to. Now give everyone, including yourself, a book and then tell which book belong to who: dit is mijn boek, dat is jouw boek, dat is uw boek, dat is zijn boek ....

Now hand over a pen to every person and say what you do while you're doing it: ik geef de pen aan jou, aan hem, aan haar...

- Try to fill in the form above with your own data.
Lesson 10 - Een beetje Nederlands

This lesson teaches you a few expressions that you may need as soon as you try to talk Dutch to Dutch people. There's also some attention for comparatives and superlatives, and for opposites. Furthermore, you'll learn when to put a verb at the end of a phrase.

If you want to speak Dutch with a Dutch person, you often have to insist on this, because most Dutch people love to show how good their English is. Nevertheless, once they speak Dutch, you might suddenly find it quite hard to communicate, because they seem to forget that they're talking to a foreigner who's still in the process of learning Dutch. You might like to try one of these, then:

- Langzaam! ('Slowly!')
- Kunt u alstublieft wat langzamer praten? ('Can you please speak a bit slower?')
- Wat zegt u? ('What are you saying?')
- Kunt u dat nog een keer zeggen? ('Can you say that one more time?')

Nevertheless, Dutch people can be very helpful, once they know you're trying to learn their language and realize that speaking slow and clearly is important to you.

Here's a list of phrases you can use when practising your conversation skills:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Text 10.1 - Spreekt u Nederlands?</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Pardon meneer, spreekt u Nederlands?</td>
<td>Excuse me sir, do you speak Dutch?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ik spreek een klein beetje Nederlands.</td>
<td>I speak a little Dutch.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoe zeg je dat in het Nederlands?</td>
<td>How do you say that in Dutch?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kunt u wat langzamer praten, alstublieft?</td>
<td>Can you speak a bit slower, please?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Niet zo snel, alstublieft.</td>
<td>Not so fast, please.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kunt u wat harder praten?</td>
<td>Can you speak a bit louder?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ik begrijp u niet.</td>
<td>I don't understand (comprehend) you.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ik versta u niet.</td>
<td>I'm not understanding (hearing) you.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wat betekent dat?</td>
<td>What does that mean?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wat bedoel je?</td>
<td>What do you mean?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dat meen je niet!</td>
<td>You don't mean it!</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

There are two English verbs that often cause misunderstandings when translated: 'to understand' and 'to mean'. That's why in the phrases above these verbs have been used subsequently:
• begrijpen is 'to understand' in the sense of 'to comprehend': Ik begrijp het niet could be translated as 'I don't get it'.
• verstaan is 'to understand' in the sense of to hear clear and loud enough: Ik versta je niet is said by someone who wants you to speak louder or clearer.
• betekenen is 'to mean' in the sense of 'to signify' or 'to be translated as': if you don't know the meaning of a word, you ask: Wat betekent dat woord?
• bedoelen is 'to mean' in the sense of 'to imply' or 'to intend': Hij bedoelt het goed means that 'He means well'.
• menen is to mean in the sense of 'to be serious': Meen je dat? is asked by someone who wants to know if you're being serious.

In the phrases above you can find what is called a comparative: langzamer. The original form langzaam is extended with -er and because of the Dutch spelling rules (lesson 1) there's one -a- less.

Except for the one -a- thing, this is the same as what happens in English: 'thin-thinner' is in Dutch dun-dunner and even irregular forms are a lot alike: 'good-better' is in Dutch goed-beter.

And there's more good news, for the superlative is almost the same: in English you add '-est' ('thinnest'), in Dutch just '-st (dunst). Usually the article het is used for the superlative (Dit boek is het dunst).

The only tricky thing, is that you have an extra '-d if the word ends on a '-r.

More good news: the list of irregular ones is very short:

- goed-beter-best
- graag-liever-liefst
- veel-meer-meest
- weinig-minder-minst
Here's a list of examples, which is at the same time a list of opposites:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>adverb</th>
<th>comparative</th>
<th>superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>goedkoop</td>
<td>goedkoper</td>
<td>goedkoopst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>duur</td>
<td>duurder</td>
<td>duurst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hoog</td>
<td>hoger</td>
<td>hoogst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>laag</td>
<td>lager</td>
<td>laagst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>groot</td>
<td>groter</td>
<td>grootst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>klein</td>
<td>kleiner</td>
<td>kleinst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>schoon</td>
<td>schoner</td>
<td>schoonst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vies</td>
<td>viezer</td>
<td>viest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mooi</td>
<td>mooier</td>
<td>mooist</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lelijk</td>
<td>lelijker</td>
<td>lelijkst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>oud</td>
<td>ouder</td>
<td>oudst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jong</td>
<td>jonger</td>
<td>jongst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kort</td>
<td>korter</td>
<td>kortst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lang</td>
<td>langer</td>
<td>langst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>moeilijk</td>
<td>moeilijker</td>
<td>moeilijkst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(ge)makkelijk</td>
<td>(ge)makkelijker</td>
<td>(ge)makkelijkst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>licht</td>
<td>lichter</td>
<td>lichtst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>donker</td>
<td>donkerder</td>
<td>donkerst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zwaar</td>
<td>zwaarder</td>
<td>zwaarst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>heet</td>
<td>heter</td>
<td>heetst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>warm</td>
<td>warmer</td>
<td>warmst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>koud</td>
<td>kouder</td>
<td>koudst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>slim</td>
<td>slimmer</td>
<td>slimest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dom</td>
<td>dommer</td>
<td>domst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>smal</td>
<td>smaller</td>
<td>smallst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>breed</td>
<td>breder</td>
<td>breedst</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

One of the most difficult things to learn for English speakers, is putting the verb at the end of a phrase at the appropriate moment. Not that the rules are so hard, it's just that it feels weird as long as you're not used to it.

Let's take a look at these sentences:

1. 'I ask if he speaks Dutch with his friends'
   Ik vraag of hij Nederlands met zijn vrienden spreekt.
2. 'He can't ride a bike because he has had an accident.'
   Hij kan niet fietsen omdat hij een ongeluk heeft gehad.
Both sentences here are conjunctions: combinations of independent sentences. In the first sentence Ik vraag ... is one original sentence and Hij spreekt Nederlands met zijn buren is the other one. They're combined through the conjunctive word of and this word (when meaning 'if'), causes the verb(s) to be at the end.

In the second sentence the original sentences Hij kan niet fietsen and Hij heeft een ongeluk gehad are combined through the conjunctive word omdat ('because'), which also causes the verb(s) to be at the end.

In conjunctions like this, there are just a few conjunctive words that do not cause the verb(s) to be at the end:

- en ('and')

  Ik kom thuis en het eten is klaar.

- maar ('but')

  Ik kom thuis, maar het eten is nog niet klaar.

- want ('because')

  Hij kan niet fietsen want hij heeft een ongeluk gehad

- of (when it means 'or')

  Hij is thuis of hij is bij zijn moeder.

- dus (conclusive 'so')

  Hij is niet huis, dus hij is bij zijn moeder or Hij is niet huis, dus is hij bij zijn moeder

After these conjunctive words, you have a normal phrase or inversion, but not all verbs at the end.

Here's a little text with a lot of conjunctions. The conjunctive words are bold:

Text 10.3 - Conjunctions

Nederland is een land dat veel water heeft.

Vroeger was er zelfs nog meer water.

Dat kun je zien als je op een oude kaart kijkt.

Veel van het water op die oude kaart is nu land omdat de Nederlanders er "polders" van hebben gemaakt.

Als je in zo'n polder woont, dan woon je onder de zeespiegel.

Veel buitenlanders vinden dat geen prettig idee, hoevel er hoge dijken rond de polders liggen.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Vocabulary</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>als</td>
<td>if, when</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bedoelen</td>
<td>to mean, to intend</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>begrijpen</td>
<td>to understand, to comprehend</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>best</td>
<td>best</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>betekenen</td>
<td>to mean</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>beter</td>
<td>better</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>breed</td>
<td>broad, large</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de buitenlander</td>
<td>the foreigner</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de dijk</td>
<td>the dike</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>donker</td>
<td>dark</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dun</td>
<td>thin</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>duur</td>
<td>expensive</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het eten</td>
<td>the meal, the food, dinner</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>goedkoop</td>
<td>cheap</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hard</td>
<td>hard, loud</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>heet</td>
<td>hot</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hoewel</td>
<td>although</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hoog</td>
<td>high</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jong</td>
<td>young</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de kaart</td>
<td>the map, the card</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>keer</td>
<td>the time</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>klaar</td>
<td>ready</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kort</td>
<td>short</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>koud</td>
<td>cold</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>laag</td>
<td>low</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lang</td>
<td>long</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>langzaam</td>
<td>slow, slowly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lelijk</td>
<td>ugly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>licht</td>
<td>light</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>liefst</td>
<td>most preferable</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>liever</td>
<td>rather</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>liggen</td>
<td>to lie</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>makkelijk</td>
<td>easy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>meest</td>
<td>most</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>menen</td>
<td>to mean, to be serious</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>minder</td>
<td>less</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>minst</td>
<td>least</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>de moeder</td>
<td>the mother</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>moeilijk</td>
<td>difficult</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More ...

- Before you move on to the next chapter you should study
  - Grammar pages: Constructing sentences (+ exercises)
  - Grammar pages: Comparative & superlative
- You could exercise inviting someone by finding another student and inviting him/her to the theater, movies, etcetera. You could agree that the invited person turns down the invitation with a reasonable excuse.
- Try to exercise past and perfect tenses by changing present tense sentences you hear into past and perfect.
Intermediate course

The intermediate lessons have the following parts:

- Plain text: a Dutch text - telling you something about life in the Netherlands.
- Listen: a RealAudio soundfile with the same text - you can listen to it while looking at the Dutch text, the English translation (see below) or both.
- Translation: the English translation of the text
- Text plus translation: both Dutch and English versions of the text.
- Text with gaps: a self grading, so called cloze test of the text.
- Exercise on grammar/vocabulary
- Test level 2 #...: a self-grading multiple choice test, more or less related to the text.
Lesson 1: Dit is Nederland

Dit is Nederland.

Nederland is een klein land in Europa. De hoofdstad van Nederland is Amsterdam, maar de regering van Nederland vind je in Den Haag.

Nederland grenst aan Duitsland, België en Engeland. Nederland heeft twaalf provincies:

1. Groningen
2. Friesland
3. Drenthe
4. Overijssel
5. Flevoland
6. Gelderland
7. Utrecht
8. Noord-Holland
9. Zuid-Holland
10. Zeeland
11. Noord-Brabant
12. Limburg

De mensen in Nederland spreken Nederlands. Veel mensen spreken ook Engels en Duits.

Nederland heeft geen bergen. Maar er is veel water. Heel veel water.
Er wonen ongeveer 15 miljoen mensen in Nederland. De meeste van hen wonen in het westen van het land. Daar liggen de steden zo dicht bij elkaar dat ze soms samen als één stad met de naam 'de Randstad' worden aangeduid.

These are the Netherlands

These are the Netherlands
The Netherlands are a small country in Europe.
The capital of the Netherlands is Amsterdam, but you'll find the government of the Netherlands in the Hague.

The Netherlands shares borders with Germany, Belgium and England. The Netherlands have twelve provinces:

1. Groningen
2. Friesland
3. Drenthe
4. Overijssel
5. Flevoland
6. Gelderland
7. Utrecht
8. Noord-Holland
9. Zuid-Holland
10. Zeeland
11. Noord-Brabant
12. Limburg

People in The Netherlands speak Dutch. Many people also speak English and German.

The Netherlands have no mountains. But there is much water. Very much water.

There are approximately 15 million people living in the Netherlands. Most of them live in the West of the country. There the cities are situated so close to each other that they're sometimes seen as one city, being named 'de Randstad' (the belt city).
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - What are the plurals and diminutives?

Example:

- de man - de mannen - het mannetje

1. het land - ......
2. de stad - ......
3. de berg - ......
4. de vrouw - ....
5. het boek - ....
6. het huis - ....
7. de druif - ....
8. de boot - ....
9. de deur - ....
10. de radio - ....

Part 2 - What are the infinitives and what do they mean?

Examples:

- ik zie zien - to see
- gelopen lopen - to walk

1. het land grenst
2. hij ligt
3. ik vind
4. ik kijk
5. aangeduid
6. het wordt
7. hij heeft
8. jij leest
9. gedaan
10. zij schrijft
Lesson 2: Heb je al een fiets?

John  Dag Heidi.
Heidi  Hé, dag John. Hoe is het met je?
John  Prima. En met jou?
Heidi  Goed, hoor. Ik ben alleen doodmoe van het fietsen.
John  Ja, wat een wind hè?
Heidi  Nou. Zeg, en hoe gaat het op je werk?
John  Druk, druk, druk. Ik heb helemaal geen tijd meer voor leuke dingen.
Heidi  Kijk je wel een beetje uit? Ik bedoel, je moet ook wat ontspannen, hoor.
John  Ja, ik weet het, maar je weet hoe dat gaat.
Heidi  Doe je nog wel aan sport?
John  Nou, eh, niet echt.
Heidi  En hoe ga je naar je werk? Heb je al een fiets?
John  Nee, ik sta nog steeds liever in de file.
Heidi  Ja, kijk, je moet het natuurlijk zelf weten, maar ik maak me wel een beetje zorgen om je.
John  Ach, lieve Heidi, dat is echt niet nodig. Maar ik moet nu toch echt verder, anders ben ik te laat.
Heidi  Zul je voorzichtig rijden?
John  Tuurlijk.
Heidi  Groetjes thuis!
John  Doe ik. Jij ook.
Do you already have a bicycle?

John Hello Heidi.
Heidi Hé, hello John. How are you?
John Fine. And you?
Heidi I'm ok (don't translate 'hoor'...). I'm just very tired of cycling.
John Yes, it's quite windy, isn't it?
Heidi Well, yes. Hey, and how are things at work?
John Busy, busy, busy. I really don't have time for enjoyable things anymore.
Heidi Would you please take care? I mean, you also have to relax.
John Yes, I know. But you know how things go.
Heidi Are you into some kind of sport?
John Well, not really.
Heidi And how are you travelling to work? Do you already have a bicycle?
John No. I rather get stuck in traffic (file: traffic jam, queue of cars).
Heidi Yeah well, look, of course it's your decision, but I do feel worried about you quite a bit.
John Oh well, dear Heidi, that's really not necessary. But now I do really have to move on.
Heidi Will you drive carefully?
John Of course.
Heidi My regards to your family!
John I'll do that. You too.
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - Change these sentences to past tense (all verbs are irregular) and start with the underlined word (watch the sequence...):

Example:

- Ik ga woensdag naar de markt.
- Woensdag ging ik naar de markt

1. Jan is vaak ziek.
2. Hij komt soms in de kerk.
3. Ze hebben in Amsterdam een groot museum.
4. Hij luistert graag naar klassieke muziek.
5. Hij ziet een vogel in de tuin.
6. Hij krijgt een fiets van zijn vader.
7. Zij gaat graag naar buiten.
8. Wij moeten eigenlijk naar huis.
9. U eet misschien niet gezond.
10. Wij zingen samen een Sinterklaaslied.

Part 2 - What are the opposites?

Examples:

- lang - kort

1. dik - ...
2. breed - ...
3. hoog - ...
4. klein - ...
5. veel - ...
6. altijd - ...
7. donker - ...
8. zwaar - ...
9. rijk - ...
10. goed - ...
Lesson 3: Nieuwe schoenen

Verkoopster Goedemiddag, kan ik u helpen?
Marcel Ja, nou, eh, ik ben op zoek naar een paar nieuwe schoenen.
Verkoopster Aan wat voor schoenen denkt u?
Marcel Nou, ze moeten wel goed voor m'n voeten zijn. En zwart. En een beetje klassiek model, graag.
Verkoopster Wat vindt u van dit model?
Marcel Ja, niet zo gek.
Verkoopster Wat voor maat draagt u?
Marcel Vierenveertig.
Verkoopster Momentje, ik zal even wat voor u halen.
Marcel Ok
...
Verkoopster Zo. Ik heb hier dat model in uw maat en ook nog een ander model.
Marcel Ah, die zijn ook mooi, zeg. Mag ik die meteen even proberen?
Verkoopster Natuurlijk. Gaat u maar even zitten.
...
Verkoopster Hoe zitten ze?
Marcel Nou, ze lopen echt heel lekker. Hoe duur zijn ze?
Verkoopster fl 219,50
Marcel Tja, dat is niet goedkoop, maar goed. Ik neem ze toch maar.
Verkoopster U zult er zeker geen spijt van krijgen, meneer.
Marcel Eh, ik kan toch wel pinnen hier?
Verkoopster Natuurlijk.
New shoes

Saleswoman  Good afternoon, can I help you?
Marcel       Yeah, eh well, I'm looking for a new pair of shoes.
Saleswoman  What kind of shoes are you thinking of?
Marcel       Well, they have to be good for my feet. And black. And the model should be quite classic.
Saleswoman  What do you think of this model?
Marcel       Yes, it's not bad, really.
Saleswoman  What size are you wearing?
Marcel       44
Saleswoman  One moment. I'll get you something.
Marcel       Ok

...
Saleswoman  Right. Here I have that model in your size and also a different model.
Marcel       Ah, they're also quite pretty (don't translate 'zeg'). Can I try them on straight away?
Saleswoman  Of course. Please take a seat.

...
Saleswoman  How do they fit?
Marcel       Well, they walk quite comfortable. HHow much are they?
Saleswoman  fl 219.50
Marcel       Well, that's not really cheap. But still, I'll take them.
Saleswoman  You will surely not regret it, sir.
Marcel       Eh, I can 'pin' (use a bankcard with pincode) here, can't I?
Saleswoman  Of course.
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - Combine these sentences, using the (conjunction word):

Example:

- Ik ben te laat. Mijn auto is stuk. (omdat)
- Ik ben te laat omdat mijn auto stuk is

1. Wij gaan naar het strand. Het is mooi weer. (als)
2. Hij heeft weinig geld. Hij heeft geen werk. (omdat)
3. Hij rookt. Hij zit op de fiets. (terwijl)
4. Hij at een banaan. Hij luisterde naar de radio. (toen)
5. Hij ziet niets. Hij heeft zijn bril niet op. (want)
6. Hij gaat naar huis. Ik blijf hier. (en)
7. Zij kan niet komen. Morgen kan ze misschien wel. (maar)
9. Ze gaat naar de kapper. Ze gaat naar haar werk (voordat)
10. Wij eten ijs. Wij eten soep. (nadat)

Part 2 - Which word doesn't belong here?

Example:

- hond - kat - boom - koe
- boom (not an animal)

1. rood - groen - kaas - blauw
2. lopen - fietsen - rijden - eten
3. liggen - leren - staan - zitten
4. steen - hout - ijzer - boek
5. ijzer - goud - hout - koper
6. voet - hand - schoen - knie
7. hoed - klomp - schoen - laars
8. broek - jas - schoen - pen
9. mooi - leuk - lekker - lelijk
10. nieuw - land - provincie – stad
Lesson 4: Twee zones, drie strippen

John Zeg, jij reist toch wel eens met de tram?
Heidi Elke dag, zowat.
John Kun jij me dan eens uitleggen hoe ik die strippenkaart moet gebruiken?
Heidi De strippenkaart? Weet je dat niet?
John Nee, ik ga nooit met de tram.
Heidi Kom je nooit in de stad, dan?
John Nee, bijna nooit. En als ik de stad in ga, dan ga ik met de auto.
Heidi Maar dan betaal je een fortuin aan parkeergeld!
John Ja, inderdaad. Daarom neem ik vanavond dus een keer de tram.
Heidi Je gaat de stad in vanavond?
John Ja, ik ga wat eten met iemand van m'n werk.
John En elke zone is één strip?
Heidi Ja, maar je moet daar altijd nog een strip bijtellen. Dus als je twee zones reist, is dat drie strippen.
John En die moet ik alle drie stempelen?
John Ah. Ik snap het. Bedankt!
Heidi Graag gedaan. En veel plezier vanavond!
Two zones, three strips

John Hey, you do travel by tram sometimes, don't you?
Heidi Almost every day.
John So can you explain to me how I have to use that 'strippenkaart' (public transport card with 'strips' to be stamped)?
Heidi The 'strippenkaart'? Don't you know that?
John No, I never go by tram.
Heidi So you never go into town (here: the city centre)?
John No, almost never. And when I do go into town, I go by car.
Heidi But than you spend a fortune on parking costs!
John Yes, indeed. Therefore I'll take the tram for once, tonight.
Heidi You're going into town tonight?
John Yes, I'm going out for diner with somebody I know from work.
Heidi Great. Well, listen closely. First you have to find out how many zones you're travelling. You can see that on the city map at the tram stop.
John And every zone is one strip?
Heidi Yes, but you always have to add one strip. So if you travel two zones, that's three strips.
John And I have to stamp all three of them?
Heidi No, you just stamp the last strip. Look, you fold the card and push it into the stamping machine. This machine stamps right on the strip.
John Ah, I get it. Thanks!
Heidi My pleasure. And have fun, tonight
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - Fill in the right form of the (verb), both in present and past:

Example:

- Ik (gaan) naar het station.
- ga - ging

1. Gerard (komen) altijd te laat.
2. (lopen) je naar je werk?
3. Hij (kijken) de hele avond naar de televisie.
4. Ik (eten) dinsdag bij Karin.
5. Hij (moeten) naar de wc.
6. Jij (mogen) niet in die kamer komen.
7. (hebben) hij veel geld?
8. Nicole (werken) de hele dag.
9. (spreken) u Nederlands?

Part 2 - Fill in the right preposition.

Example:

- Ik zit ... een stoel.
- Ik zit op een stoel

1. Ik fiets ... school.
2. Ik geef het boek ... de leraar.
3. Een kelder zit ... de grond.
4. Ik werk ... IBM.
5. Ik drink wijn ... het eten.
6. Het is twee graden .../... nul.
7. De boeken staan ... de kast.
8. U spreekt ... Karel de Groot.
9. Ik woon ... 1991 in Amsterdam.
10. Jaques komt ... Zwitserland.
Lesson 5: Gefeliciteerd met je vriendin!

Van harte gefeliciteerd

Heidi Ha die John. Zeg, harstikke gefeliciteerd met je vriendin!
Heidi Gek?
John Ja, dat Nederlanders altijd iedereen feliciteren als er iemand jarig is.
Heidi Doen ze dat in jouw land niet?
John Nee, natuurlijk niet. Wij feliciteren alleen degene die jarig is.
Heidi Tja, nou, nu je het zegt. Het is inderdaad wel een beetje vreemd.
John Maar weet je wat ik wel leuk vind? Die bloemen!
Heidi Hoe bedoel je?
John Nou kijk, als je iemand iets wilt geven en je kunt niets bedenken, dan geef je gewoon een bos bloemen.
Heidi Dat is inderdaad wel makkelijk, ja. Maar vertel eens, wat vind je nog meer vreemd aan Nederlanders?
John Oh, daar kan ik wel een boek over schrijven. Over hoe jullie patat eten, over jullie fietsen, over jullie politieke partijen, jullie wc's, jullie tolerantie ...
Heidi Ach, ik weet niet of wij zo tolerant zijn. Ik moet toegeven dat het er wel vaak op lijkt of we dat zijn, maar misschien is dat ook wel gewoon onverschilligheid.
John Denk je dat?
Heidi Het interesseert ons niet wat iemand gelooft, wat iemands sexuele voorkeur is, wat iemand rookt of drinkt, zolang iemand maar betaalt.
John En weet je wat het meest interessant is aan Nederlanders?
Heidi Nou?
John Hun zelfkritiek.
Congratualations on your girlfriend!

_Hedi_ Hey yo John. Lot's of congratualations on your girlfriend!
_John_ Yes, thank's a lot. Very sweet of you. But to be honest: I still find it weird.
_Hedi_ Weird?
_John_ Yes, that Dutch people always congratulate everyone when someone is having birthday.
_Hedi_ Don't they do that in your country?
_John_ No, of course not. We congratulate only the one who's having birthday.
_Hedi_ Yes, well, know that you mention it. It's quite weird indeed.
_John_ But you know what I like? Those flowers!
_Hedi_ What do you mean?
_John_ Well, look, if you want to give someone something and you can't think of something, you just give a bunch of flowers.
_Hedi_ That quite convenient indeed. But tell me, what else do you find strange about Dutch people?
_John_ Oh, I could write a book on that. On how you eat fries, on your bicycles, on your political parties, your toilets, your tolerance...
_Hedi_ Well, I don't know if we're that tolerant. I have to admit that it often looks like we are, but perhaps it's really just indifference.
_John_ Do you think so?
_Hedi_ It doesn't interest us what someone believes, what someone's sexual preference is, what someone smokes or drinks as long as someone pays.
_John_ And do you know the most interesting thing about Dutch people?
_Hedi_ Well?
_John_ Their self-critisism
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - Make plurals out of all singular forms:

Example:

- Ik eet de banaan.
- Wij eten de bananen

1. Ik schrijf de brief.
2. Hij eet de appel
3. Hij komt te laat.
4. U zit op de stoel.
5. Ik koop het huis.
7. Zij houdt van mij.
8. Ik praat met jou.
10. De beer eet het dropje.

Part 2 - Fill in 'niet' or 'geen'.

Example:

- Dit is ... stoel.
- Dit is geen stoel

1. Hij is ... op school.
2. Ik praat ... met de leraar.
3. Hij is ... gek.
4. Ik werk ... bij IBM.
5. Ik drink ... wijn bij het eten.
6. Kom je ... op mijn verjaardag?
7. De boeken staan ... in de kast.
8. Dat is ... gulden, dat is een Belgische frank.
9. Ik woon ... in Amsterdam.
10. Dat is ... goede zin.
Lesson 6: Een klein kindje

Ronald Dag Carla, wat fijn je te zien.
Carla Hoi Ronald. Dat is lang geleden dat ik jou zag.
Ronald Hoe voel je je nu na de bevalling?
Carla Wel goed. Maar ik ben blij dat mijn zoontje nu eindelijk is geboren. Mijn buik was zo groot geworden de laatste weken! Wil je naar het kindje gaan kijken?
Carla Hij ligt in het wiegje te slapen.
Ronald Ach, wat is hij klein zeg.
Carla Ja en alles zit erop en eraan. Twee oortjes en een neusje en tien kleine vingertjes.
Ronald En tien kleine teentjes?
Carla Ja, die ook. Toe maar, kijk maar even.
Ronald Ik las op het geboortekaartje dat jullie hem twee namen hebben gegeven.
Carla Ja, hij is naar zijn opa genoemd. Die heet ook Arend Jan. Opa is apetrots op zijn eerste kleinzoon.
Ronald Nou, als ik dat kleintje eens bekijk. Hij lijkt zelfs wel een beetje op zijn opa.
Carla Vind je dat?
Ronald Ja, hij is ook zo kaal...

A little baby
Ronald Hello Carla, how nice to see you.

Carla Hi Ronald. Long time no see.

Ronald How do you feel, now that you’ve given birth?

   I'm doing fine. But I'm very glad that my son finally has been born. My belly Carla had grown enormously the last couple of weeks! Do you want to take a look at the baby? He's sleeping in his little cradle.

Ronald Ah, he's so tiny.

Carla Yes, and it has everything it should have. Two little ears, a little nose and ten little fingers.

Ronald And ten little toes?

Carla Yes, those too. Go ahead and take a look.

Ronald I've read on the birth announcement card that you've given him two names.

Carla Yes, we've named him after his grandfather. His name was Arend Jan too.
   Granddad is very proud of his first grandson.

Ronald Well, when I look at that little baby. He looks even a bit like his granddad.

Carla Do you think so?

Ronald Yes, he's also bold like that...
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - What are the infinitives of the underlined verbs and what do they mean?

Examples:

- Ik slaap - slapen - to sleep
- Ik heb gelopen - lopen - to walk

1. Ik zag jou
2. Mijn buik is groot geworden
3. Ik las het kaartje
4. Ik noem de hond 'Theo'
5. Hij lijkt op zijn opa
6. Hartelijk gefeliciteerd
7. Ik moet dat toegeven
8. Ik rook niet meer.
9. Hij heeft het niet gedaan
10. Wij betalen zo snel mogelijk

Part 2 - What are past participles?

Example:

- Ik heb (feliciteren) - Ik heb gefeliciteerd

1. Ik heb (zien) - ....
2. Ik heb (kijken) - ....
3. Ik heb (slapen) - ....
4. Ik heb (geven) - ....
5. Ik heb (noemen) - ....
6. Ik heb (bekijken) - ....
7. Ik heb (vinden) - ....
8. Ik ben (zijn) - ....
9. Ik ben (worden) - ....
10. Ik heb (hebben) - ....
Lesson 7: Nieuws

Goedemorgen, dit is de radionieuwsdienst verzorgd door het ANP.

En dan nu het weer. Het is vandaag een bewolkte dag met af en toe wat regen. De temperatuur is ongeveer 19 graden.

Dan staan er nog files op de volgende wegen. Op de A2 richting Utrecht staat vanwege een ongeluk een file van 10 kilometer. In de omgekeerde richting staat een file van 5 kilometer door kijkers.

Wij wensen u nog een prettige dag.
News

Good morning, this is the radio news service, provided by the ANP (general Dutch Press).

A group of young people demonstrated this morning against the plans of the secretary of Education to counteract the OV-card (Free public transport for students). A spokesman of the students declared that the students already have too little money. They won't be able to pay for public transport in addition to their daily expenses. A few parents joined the procession, because many students won't be able to come home in the weekends if the OV-card isn't valid anymore. This afternoon the secretary of Education will discuss this matter with a few students.

And now today's weather. It's a cloudy day today with a few cloudbursts every now and then. The temperature is about 19 degrees Celsius.

Traffic Jams are at the following roads. Because of an accident there is a traffic jam of 10 kilometers at the A2, in the direction of Utrecht. In the opposite direction there's a 5 kilometer jam because of spotters.

We wish you a pleasant day
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - Change these sentences to past tense en turn them into questions:

Example:

- Dit is het nieuws.
- Was dit het nieuws?

1. Hij verzorgt het nieuws
2. Een groep jongeren demonstreert.
3. Er lopen ouders mee.
4. Hij verklaart dat hij boos is.
5. De minister bespreekt de kwestie.
7. De OV-kaart is niet meer geldig.
8. Het regent.
10. Hij wenst ons een prettige dag.

Part 2 - What are the opposites?

Examples:

- lang - kort

1. licht (2x) - ...
2. moeilijk- ...
3. duur - ...
4. koud - ...
5. oud (2x) - ...
6. ver - ...
7. laag - ...
8. weinig - ...
9. arm - ...
10. snel - ...
In Nederland hebben de kinderen een leerplicht tot hun 16e jaar. Bij ons gaan bijna alle kinderen vanaf 4 jaar naar de basisschool. Ze hoeven niet zo jong te beginnen, want het is pas verplicht als zij 5 jaar zijn geworden.

De basisschool bestaat uit 8 groepen. De jongste kinderen beginnen in groep 1 en de oudste zitten in groep 8.

Als zij de basisschool hebben afgemaakt, meestal zijn ze dan 12 jaar oud, gaan ze naar het Voortgezet Onderwijs. Dat is een grote verandering, want de kinderen krijgen dan te maken met meerdere docenten en moeten ze huiswerk maken.

Naar welk type voortgezet onderwijs zij gaan, hangt af van hun prestaties op de basisschool. De basisschool adviseert het kind bij het maken van een keuze uit de verschillende soorten: MAVO, HAVO of VWO. Het kind kan ook naar een VBO of IVBO gaan. Dit zijn technische of vakscholen. Ieder type voortgezet onderwijs begint met een basisvorming.

In Nederland bestaan er ook de 'scholengemeenschappen.' Dit zijn scholen met meerdere typen voortgezet onderwijs. Dat is makkelijk voor kinderen die willen wisselen van type, omdat zij het onderwijs te makkelijk of te moeilijk vinden. Ze hoeven dan niet naar een totaal andere school.
The Dutch Educational system

In the Netherlands there's compulsory education for children till they've turned 16. Almost all children in the Netherlands start primary school as they're four years old. They don't have to start so soon, since education only becomes compulsory once a child reaches the age of five.

The primary school consists out of 8 groups. The youngest children start in group 1 and the oldest are in group 8.

When they've finished primary school, usually when they're 12 years old, they have to go on to a secondary school. This is a big change, because then they have to deal with several teachers and have to do homework.

Which kind of secondary school the children will attend, depends on their efforts at primary school. This primary school advises the child to choose between MAVO (junior general secondary education), HAVO (senior general secondary education) and VWO (pre-university education). The child can also choose to go to VBO or IVBO. These are vocational schools. All courses begin with 'basic secondary education'.

The Netherlands also has combined schools. These are schools with more types of secondary education. This comes in handy for children who want to change schooltype, because the education is too easy or too difficult for them. They don't have to go to a completely different school.
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - Combine these sentences, using the (conjunction word):

Example:

- Hij ziet niets. Hij heeft zijn bril niet op. (want)
- Hij ziet niets want hij heeft zijn bril niet op.

1. Hij gaat naar school. Hij is 4 jaar. (als)
2. Hij gaat niet naar school. Hij is ziek. (omdat)
3. Hans zit in groep 1. Laura zit in groep 3. (en)
4. Hij heeft geen tijd. Hij moet huiswerk maken. (want)
5. Zij is nog jong. Ze weet al veel. (maar)
6. Hij gaat naar de HAVO. Hij leert goed. (als)
7. Hij gaat naar een andere school. Deze school is te moeilijk voor hem. (omdat)
8. Hij heeft veel geld. Hij werkt niet hard. (hoewel)
10. Wij maken de oefening. Wij hebben de tekst gelezen. (nadat)

Part 2 - Which word doesn't belong here?

Example:

- huis - kasteel - film - boederij
- film (not a building)

1. MAVO - HAVO - VWO - ANP
2. sok - schilderij - trui - jas
3. leraar - school - klas - boom
4. steen - geld - ijzer - papier
5. onderwijs - feest - taart - verjaardag
6. zones - stripen - bus - knie
7. bus - trein - tram - fiets
8. regen - water - rivier - steen
9. huis - file - auto - ongeluk
10. letter - woord - zin - brief
Lesson 9: Een feestje

(Tringgggg)
Pual Hoi Margreet, je spreekt met Paul.
Margreet Dag Paul, hoe gaat het met je?
Paul Ja goed, maar ik heb je hulp nodig. Ik geef vanavond een feestje, weet je nog?
Margreet Mmm, ter gelegenheid van je afstuderen, toch? Nog gefeliciteerd.
Paul Dank je wel. Ik ben nu een lijstje met boodschappen aan het maken, want ik moet nog zoveel spullen in huis halen. Maar ik kan niks verzinnen.
Margreet Nou, vertel me maar wat je al hebt.
Paul Ok, eh.. komkommer met dipsaus, zoutjes en snacks en ik heb zelf twee taarten gebakken. Ik hoop dat ze gelukt zijn. Ik heb ze nog niet geproefd.
Margreet Vergeet niet om frisdrank en sinaasappelsap te kopen. Wat heb je eigenlijk voor borrelhapjes voor bij de wijn?
Paul Oh, dat is een goeie, daar heb ik nog niet aan gedacht.
Margreet Je moet wat kaas kopen, dat is lekker. En misschien wat toast.
Paul Goed idee. Nou, heb je nog iets wat ik echt niet moet vergeten?
Margreet Ja, vergeet vooral niet om extra servetjes te kopen, want ik neem mijn vriend mee.
A party

(Tringgggg)

Paul  Hi Margreet, this is Paul
Margreet Hello Paul, how are you?
Paul  Fine, but I need your help. I'm throwing a party this evening, remember?
Margreet Mmm, because of your graduation, right? Congratulations.
Paul  Thank you. I'm drawing up a grocery list, because I still have to get many things from the shop. But I can't think of anything.
Margreet Well, why don't you tell me what you've got?
Paul  Ok, ehr.. I got: cucumber with dipping, salty biscuits and snacks and I baked two pies. I hope they worked out, I didn't taste them yet.
Margreet Don't forget to buy some softdrinks and orange juice. What do you have for titbits that go with the wine?
Paul  Oh, that's a good one. I didn't think of that yet.
Margreet You should buy some cheese, that tastes good. And perhaps some toast.
Paul  Good idea. Well, can you think of something I really mustn't forget?
Margreet Yes, don't forget to bring extra napkins.. I'm bringing my boyfriend.
Exercise  - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - Fill in the right form of the (verb), both in present and past:

Example:

- Ik (gaan) naar huis
- ga - ging

1. Ik (spreeken) met Paul.
2. Het (gaan) goed met hem.
3. Ik (hebben) je hulp nodig
4. Wij (geven) een feestje.
5. Hij (halen) veel spullen in huis.
6. Het meisje (kopen) een pak appelsap.
7. De leraar (vertellen) iets over zijn land.
8. Karel (bakken) een grote taart.
10. Hij (vergeten) zijn pen.

Part 2 - Fill in the right preposition.

Example:

- Ik zit ... een stoel.
- Ik zit op een stoel

1. U spreekt ... mevrouw De Groot.
2. Gefeliciteerd ... je afstuderen.
3. Ik heb lekkere hapjes ... de wijn.
4. Hij koopt een cadeau ... zijn vriendin.
5. Heb je nog gedacht ... zijn verjaardag?
6. Ik schrijf een brief ... mijn vader.
7. Ik ben boos ... haar.
8. Gaat hij elke dag ... school?
9. Er staat een file ... de A2.
10. Kom je vanavond ... tijd?
Voor onze vrolijke zoon van 4 zoeken wij een aardige oppas. Voor 2-3 middagen p.w., event. vakanties. Omgeving centrum van A'dam. Tel: 020-6867473.

Gratis op te halen poesjes, drie mnd. oud. Tel. 086-8463726.

Wij zoeken voor marktonderzoek: kopers/gebruikers van Tabs (tabletten) voor in de wasmachine van de merken OMO, Sunil en Dixan. Wij zoeken zowel vrouwen die tevreden zijn over het wassen met tabs, als vrouwen die daar juist niet tevreden over zijn. Leeftijdsindicatie 24-55 jaar. Voor uw deelname ontvangt u een kleine vergoeding. Selectiebureau Profiel tel. 070-49726453.

Te koop: 2 damesfietsen, z.g.a.n. trommelremmen en 3 versnellingen. Tel. 020-6694373.

Eiken tv-kast z.g.a.n. 100,- bel nu tel 020-5849302 na 18:00 s.v.p.

T.k. gevr. Tuinstoelen, merk Austin, liefst wit. Tel. 039-8775643 (alleen 's avonds).

Wij zoeken voor deeltijd: tweepersoonsbed met matras 140 x 200. Te koop: parkiet (geel met groen) met kooi, zangzaad gratis bijgeleverd. Tel. 020-4081999

T.k. gevr. tweepersoonsbed met matras 140 x 200. Te koop: parkiet (geel met groen) met kooi, zangzaad gratis bijgeleverd. Tel. 020-4081999

Te koop: 2 damesfietsen, z.g.a.n. trommelremmen en 3 versnellingen. Tel. 020-6694373.

Eiken tv-kast z.g.a.n. 100,- bel nu tel 020-5849302 na 18:00 s.v.p.

T.k. gevr. tweepersoonsbed met matras 140 x 200. Te koop: parkiet (geel met groen) met kooi, zangzaad gratis bijgeleverd. Tel. 020-4081999

You make me very happy with jokers from playing cards. Double dipping is no problem. Tel. 050-3729173

Heeft u geen tijd voor uw strijkwerk? Ik doe het voor u. De ene dag gebracht, de volgende dag kan u het weer ophalen. Tel. 020-6694297 (niet bellen tot 18:00)

Een vrolijke, serieuze en oprechte man zoekt dito vrouw om een relatie mee te beginnen. Bel je me op? Tel. 020-68846372

Vlooienmarkt in sporthal Zeeburg, Zeeburgerdijk 620, A'dam. Aankomende zaterdag tussen 10:00 - 17:00.

Goed tehuis gezocht voor twee lieve poezen van elf jaar oud. Info tel. 070-5904463

Heeft u geen tijd voor uw strijkwerk? Ik doe het voor u. De ene dag gebracht, de volgende dag kan u het weer ophalen. Tel. 020-6694297 (niet bellen tot 18:00)
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>For sale...</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>We seek a friendly babysitter for our cheerful son who is 4 years old. For 2-3 afternoons per week, possibly during holidays. Neighborhood of Amsterdam. Tel: 020 -6867473.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>We seek lawn chairs, branch Austin, preferably white. Tel. 039-8775643 (only evenings).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For sale: 2 lady's bikes, as good as new, drumbrake and derailleur. Tel. 020-6694373.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>We seek double bed with matras 140 x 200. For sale: parakeet (yellow and green) with cage, bird seed comes with the bird. Tel. 020-4081999</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fleemarket in sports hall Zeeburg, Zeeburgerdijk 620, A'dam. Upcoming Saturday between 10:00 and 17:00.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You don't have time for your ironing? I'll do it for you. Brought one day, you can pick it up the next day. Tel. 020-6694297 (don't call untill 18:00)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Exercise - Grammar and vocabulary training

Part 1 - Make singulars out of all plural forms:

Example:

- Wij eten de bananen
- Ik eet de banaan

1. Wij hebben geen vakanties
2. De poesjes spelen met de ballen.
3. Wij zitten op de stoelen.
4. Waar zijn jullie fietsen?
5. Wij kopen de kasten
6. De parkieten zingen niet.
7. De spelers pakken de kaarten.
8. De poezen hebben vlooien.
9. Wij liggen op de bedden.
10. De mannen strijken de broeken.

Part 2 - Make correct sentences out of these words

Example:

- op - geen - matras - dat - op - bed - ligt - er
- Er ligt geen matras op dat bed
  Op dat bed ligt geen matras

1. een - gekocht - nieuwe - fiets - hij - heeft
2. met - de - gesproken - leraar - ik - heb
3. ik - het - doe - u - voor
4. wij - geen - hebben - voor - strijkwerk - tijd
5. wij - een - oppas - voor - zoon - zoeken - onze
6. met - vriendin - je - van - gefeliciteerd - harte - !
7. op - zijn - lijkt - de - baby - opa
8. het - een - bewolkte - dag - wordt - vandaag
9. naar - onze - kinderen - gaan - school - niet - vandaag
10. ik - mijn - vriend - mee - naar - het - neem - feestje
Theory

At the site there’s not only some explanation, but also a few exercises and answers to check if you really understood everything.
About de en het

One of the most frustrating things for those who learn Dutch at an adult age, is knowing when a word is a het word and when it is a de word. I'm not going to tell here that there is a method that deletes all frustrations, but I do have a few hints that should make it a bit easier.

To begin with the reason for all this: there are masculine words, feminine words and neuter words. All masculine and feminine words get de while all neuter words get het. A good way to remember this is simply to:

- think of 'the man, the woman and the child', since this will be: de man, de vrouw en het kind.

Though there is mostly not a very good reason for things to be masculine, feminine or neuter there are a few indications:

- all words that are made smaller with *(e)tje are neuter (de vrouw - het vrouwtje, de man - het mannetje),
- practically all words that and on standard suffixes like -ing, -ij, -ie, -e and -heid are feminine (de vereniging, de bakkerij, de politie, de dame, demoelijkheid),
- all infinite verbs used as nouns are neuter (de vrouw - het vrouwtje, de man - het mannetje)
- words starting with standard prefixes like *ge-, ver, ont- and be- and not ending on -ing are neuter (het gevaar, het verhaal, het ontzag, hetbeslag)
- words ending on -el or -er are quite often de-words (de tafel, de beker)
- buildings, however, are often het-words (het theater, het huis, het station) just not debioscoop (since that ends on -scoop, which is one of those standard suffixes),
- in plural all words get de (de vrouwtjes, de boeken)
- and, naturally, all words referring to persons (individuals) are de-words (de minister, de bakker).

Now, you could decide not to bother, producing a sound somewhere between de en het (...edth...) in case of doubt, but think of the consequences of the difference:

- meaning 'this' and 'that', de-words get deze, die, while het-words get dit and dat,
- meaning 'which' (or sometimes 'what'), de-words get welke and het words get welk,
- meaning 'our', de-words get onze, while het-words get ons,
- adjectives end on an extra e (always pronounced in Dutch!) standing before a noun, except when this is an indefinite (using een) het-word: de groene pen, een groene boek,
- buildings, however, are often het-words (het theater, het huis, het station) just not debioscoop since that ends on -scoop, which is one of those standard suffixes,
- in plural all words get de (de vrouwtjes, de boeken)
- and, naturally, all words referring to persons (individuals) are de-words (de minister, de bakker).

If the learning of this de/het difference is really important to you, I would advise you to make a list of all het-words you find: there are less of them then there are de-words.

Finally, when you really need to know, look in your dictionary. When it doesn't say straightforward if the words are de or het, it might very well tell you indirectly, by putting (m), (v), or (o) behind the word. Since the m stands for mannelijk (masculine), the v for vrouwelijk (feminine) and the o for onzijdig (neuter) you'll know what to use. And for words having two or even three of those, like affiche (o&v(m)), you are free make your own choice.
Constructing sentences

1 - Basic sequence
Like in most languages, the basic sentence starts with the subject, followed by the (first) verb. Something typical for Dutch though, is that all other verbs are basically placed at the end of the sentence.
Most basic: subject - 1st verb - (when/where/how/object) -(other verbs)
Example: Hij - heeft - gisteren - thuis - snel - de was - gedaan.
But:

- the when/where/how sequence is often just optional and the object can often also be the first of these four;
- if there is a preposition added to the when, where, how or object, it can also be placed after the other verbs.

2 - Inversion
Often the subject and 1st verb are switched, so that the subject follows the verb. This occurs when:

- The sentence is a question. Not something strange to English speakers, though in English it only sounds right with some specific verbs. A sentence like Weet jij dat? could hardly be translated as Know you that?
- The sentence is a command or instruction. Also not strange to English speakers (come here, bethere, don’t you do that).
- A non-subject part of the sentence comes first. Usually this would be when, where or how and incidentally the object. Watch out, though: each of those positions could not only be filled by a single word, but also by a long phrase.

3 - Extraposition
The most weird constructions to English speakers might bethose with all the verbs (including the first) at the end. This occurs when there is a conjunctive word connecting two phrases.
Example (with dat as a conjunctive word): Ik denk dat hij gisteren thuis snel de was gedaan heeft.
But:

- the sequence of the verbs at the end doesn’t really matter here, so it could as well be heeft gedaan,
- this extrapolation does not apply when the conjunctive words en, maar or want,
- when the conjunctive word is dus you can choose between a basic sequence and inversion,
- when of is the conjunctive word and it means or, this extrapolation does not apply, but it does apply when of means if.
On plural

It's impossible to give all the rules for making plurals, but here are a few guidelines:

- Words that end on a syllable that includes a 'toneless -e' (like in de), usually get an -s:
  - de tafel - de tafels
  - de vader - de vaders
  - de haven - de havens

- Words that end on a vocal usually get an -s with an apostrophe (') to keep the sound 'long':
  - de taxi - de taxi's
  - de agenda - de agenda's
  - de radio - de radio's

- Other words usually get -en:
  - de boot (boat) - de boten
  - de maan (moon) - de manen
  - de man (man) - de mannen

- Watch out with the spelling of vocals, though: if there's a 'long', double vocal it usually becomes a single one, followed by a single consonant, if it's a 'short, single vocal, it usually stays single, but followed by a doubled consonant:
  - de boek (book) - de boeken
  - de krant (paper) - de kranten
  - de vrouw (women) - de vrouwen

- If there's an -f at the end, it usually becomes a -v unless the English version of the word has a 'ph' where the Dutch version has -f:
  - de brief (letter) - de brieven
  - de graaf (duke) - de graven
  - de paragraaf (paragraph) - de paragrafen

- If there's an -s at the end, it often becomes a -z. There's no rule though, to tell for which words or sounds this happens, you just have to remember this for each word:
  - de kaars (candle) - de kaarsen
  - de laars (boot) - de laarzen
  - de maan (moon) - de manen
  - de huis (house) - de huizen

- Unfortunately, besides all this, there are a lot of hard to remember exceptions:
  - de dag (day) - de dagen
  - de dak (roof) - de daken
  - de glas (glass) - de glazen
  - het bedrag (amount) - de bedragen
  - het gat (hole) - de gaten
  - het graf (grave) - de graven (compare to 'de graaf'...)
  - het dal (valley) - de dalen
  - het vat (barrel) - de vaten
  - de schip (ship) - de schepen
  - de smid (blacksmith) - de smeden
  - het lid (member) - de leden
  - de stad (town) - de steden
  - de oom (uncle) - de ooms
  - de broer (brother) - de broers
  - de musicus (musician) - de musici
  - de timmerman (carpenter) - de timmerlieden or de timmerlui
  (all professions on -man have -lieden or -lui for plural)
Pronouns

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>subject</th>
<th>object</th>
<th>possessive</th>
<th>reflexive</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>i</td>
<td>ik</td>
<td>mij</td>
<td>mijn</td>
<td>me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>j</td>
<td>jij</td>
<td>jou</td>
<td>jouw</td>
<td>je</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>u</td>
<td>u</td>
<td>u</td>
<td>uw</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>h</td>
<td>hij</td>
<td>hem</td>
<td>zijn</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>z</td>
<td>zij</td>
<td>haar</td>
<td>haar</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>h</td>
<td>het</td>
<td>het</td>
<td>zijn</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>w</td>
<td>wij</td>
<td>ons</td>
<td>ons/öne</td>
<td>ons</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>j</td>
<td>jullie</td>
<td>jullie</td>
<td>jullie</td>
<td>je</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>z</td>
<td>zij</td>
<td>ze</td>
<td>hun/hun</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A few notes on this:

- Many pronouns have two versions: one for regular use and one to use if the pronoun has a specific emphasis (the 'proper' version):
  - mij and mijn are usually me and m’n
  - jij, jou and jouw are usually je
    (Herinner jij je jouw verjaardag? - Herinner je je je verjaardag?)
  - zijn is usually z’n
  - het is usually ’t
  - zij is usually ze
  - wij is usually we

- The same goes for ze and hun (object, third person plural): normally you would use ze, but if you need a special emphasis, you use hun.

- Officially, for object third person plural (‘them’) there are two forms: hun and hen. The grammar rules state that
  - hen should be used for direct object and after prepositions and
  - hun should be used for indirect object.

This is a purely artificial difference though: most Dutch people don't get it right - in colloquial Dutch hun is mostly used for all object forms.

- In spoken Dutch, you even hear hun being used as a subject form for third person plural. This is still considered absolutely wrong, though.
- The possessive ons is used for het-nouns (ons huis) and onze for de-nouns (onze tuin).
Verbs - general

Dutch verbs can, like the English ones, be divided into regular and irregular verbs (for experts: to keep it simple, I'm skipping the weak/strong division). I'll give you the regularities and then the irregularities for each tense.

But before that, something about the used tenses. Speaking Dutch, you'll basically need four of them:

- present tense - onvoltooid tegenwoordige tijd (ott)
- past tense - onvoltooid verleden tijd (vtt)
- present perfect tense - voltooid tegenwoordige tijd (ovt)
- past perfect tense - voltooid verleden tijd (vvt)

Please note that the first two are used in much more cases than in English. When you're a beginner you could restrict yourself for quite a while to using only those. You could for example just use 'ik zie haar' in situations where you would use the English (more specific) phrases:

- I see her
- I am seeing her
- I will be seeing her
- I'm going to see her
Verbs - present

Let's take a very common Dutch word: fietsen - which means 'to ride a bicycle'. For the different persons it shows the following forms:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>singular</th>
<th>plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>ik fiets</td>
<td>wij fietsen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>jij fiets (u fiest)</td>
<td>jullie fietsen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>u fiest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>hij/zij fiest</td>
<td>zij fietsen</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

So the form for ik is the verb without the -en part (this we call 'de stam'). And:

- If it should end on a 'long' vowel it has to become adouble one: for nemen (to take) it will be ik neem and for lopen (to walk) it should be 'ikloop'. There are a few exceptions, though - for komen (to come), for example it should be ik kom.
- Dutch words never end on double consonants, so for the ik-form you also take half of a double consonant away. For rennen (to run) it would thus be ik ren and not ik renn.
- Dutch words also never end on a v or a z. They become f and s. So for blazen (to blow) it will be ik blaas and for beloven (to promise) it will be ik beloof.

You take this form and add a t for the second and third person singular, but you take it off again when the subject jij or je comes after the verb instead of before.

For plural you simply always take the infinitive form. The only exception is when you use u: this form for 'you', used when it has to be polite, can be used for singular and plural, but keeps the singular form.

The few irregular verbs in the present tense are only irregular for singular forms - plural forms always get the infinitive form:

- hebben (to have): ik heb, jij hebt, u hebt/heeft, hij/zij heeft
- kunnen (to can, to be able to): ik kan, jij kan/kunt, u kan/kunt, hij/zij kan
- mogen (to may, to be allowed to): ik mag, jij mag, hij/zij mag
- willen (to want): ik wil, jij wil/wilt, u wil/wilt, hij/zij wil
- zijn (to be): ik ben, jij bent, u bent, hij/zij is
- zullen (to shall, to will): ik zal, jij zal/zult, u zal/zult, hij/zij zal
Verbs - past (regular)

For regular verbs, the past tense has two possibilities: -de(n) or -te(n) behind the ik-form of the present tense. You have to take -te for singular and -ten for plural if this form ends on a k, f, s, ch, p, t or x. To remember this, I use the word kofschiptaxi, containing all these consonants. If the ik-form does not end on one of those, you take -de for singular and -den for plural.

So for the verb fietsen, having an ik-form that ends on s, which is one of the consonants in kofschiptaxi, it will be:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>singular</th>
<th>plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>ik fiets</td>
<td>wij fietsen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>jij fiets</td>
<td>jullie fietsen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>hij/zij fiets</td>
<td>zij fietsen</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

And for the verb rennen (to run), not having an ik-form that ends on one of the consonants in kofschiptaxi, it will be:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>singular</th>
<th>plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>ik ren</td>
<td>wij renen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>jij ren</td>
<td>jullie renen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>hij/zij ren</td>
<td>zij renen</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Two remarks on all that:

1. Sometimes you get double t or double d where this looks quite weird even to native speakers. The present forms ik antwoord - wij antwoorden (I/we reply) for example, will be in the past tense ik antwoordde - wij antwoordden, and the past of ik plant - wij planten (I/we plant) becomes 'ik plantte - wij plantten'.

2. Where infinitive forms have a v or z that becomes f or s in the ik-form, you must still think of the original v en z when you choose between -te(n) or -de(n). And since v and z are not in kofschiptaxi you get -de(n).
Verbs - perfect (regular)

For the perfect tense, you need to make a past participle (ge-form). You do that like this:

- take the present tense ik-form and add ge-to it,
- place an -t at the end when the ik-form ends on one of the consonants inkofschiptaxi and add -d when it doesn't.

So for fietsen it will be ik heb gefietst, and for rennen it will be ik heb gerend.

Three remarks on that:

1. To choose by listening between -t and -d for a past participle, in fact you could listen if the past gets -te(n) or -de(n), which is easier to hear: the difference between just -d or -t at the end, as in past participles, is not heard in Dutch (they're both pronounced as t).
2. The past participles of verbs that have an infinitive form starting with ge-, be-, ve-, re-, or ont- do not get ge-. So for betalen (to pay) it will be ik heb betaald and not gebetalad.
3. For the perfect tense you mostly use hebben, like you use 'to have' in English. But there are - a bit more than in English - verbs or situations where you use zijn (to be). For example when you use a verb that means 'to go somewhere' and a direction is indicated. So it would be ik heb in het park gefietst (I have been cycling in the park - no direction) but ik ben naar het station gefietst (I have cycled to the station - clear direction).
Irregular verbs

The sad thing for languages like Dutch and English is that most of the frequently used verbs are irregular. I'll list the most important ones, but before I do that I have a few remarks.

- Note that most of them have vowel changes, both in past tense and past participle. In that case:
  - there is practically never \( -t(e)(n) \) or \( -d(e)(n) \) at the end,
  - the past participle practically always ends on \( -en \).
- The list is far from complete. I listed the most current ones and I skipped derived forms that go the same way. Listed, for example kopen, trekken and staan, but I skipped verkopen (sell), vertrekken (leave), bestaan (exist) and verstaa(n) (understand).
- The translation is quite incomplete. Many words just can't be translated properly without a few lines of explanation. So take your dictionary for details.
- With the past participles marked with * you use zijn, when they're marked with () you should use zijn when a direction is indicated and for the ones marked() you can use zijn as well as hebben. For the other ones you use hebben, unless they are used in a passive mode.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Infinitive (translation)</th>
<th>Past</th>
<th>Past participle</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>bakken (bake)</td>
<td>bakte</td>
<td>gebakken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>beginnen (begin)</td>
<td>begon</td>
<td>begonnen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>*bewegen (move)</td>
<td>bewoog</td>
<td>bewogen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bieden (offer)</td>
<td>bood</td>
<td>geboden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>binden (bind)</td>
<td>bond</td>
<td>gebonden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>blijken (appear)</td>
<td>bleek</td>
<td>gebleken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>breken (break)</td>
<td>brak</td>
<td>gebroken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>brengen (bring)</td>
<td>bracht</td>
<td>gebracht</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>buigen (bend, bow)</td>
<td>boog</td>
<td>gebogen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>denken (think)</td>
<td>dacht</td>
<td>gedacht</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>doen (do)</td>
<td>deed</td>
<td>gedaan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dragen (carry, wear)</td>
<td>droeg</td>
<td>gedragen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>drinken (drink)</td>
<td>dronk</td>
<td>gedronken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dwingen (force)</td>
<td>dwong</td>
<td>gedwongen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>eten (eat)</td>
<td>at</td>
<td>gegeten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>gaan (go)</td>
<td>ging</td>
<td>gegaan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>gelden (be valid)</td>
<td>gold</td>
<td>gegolden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>genieten (enjoy)</td>
<td>genoot</td>
<td>genoten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>geven (give)</td>
<td>gaf</td>
<td>gegeven</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hangen (hang)</td>
<td>hing</td>
<td>gehangen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hebben (have)</td>
<td>had</td>
<td>gehad</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>helpen (help)</td>
<td>hielp</td>
<td>geholpen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>heten (be called)</td>
<td>heette</td>
<td>geheten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hoeven (need (denying))</td>
<td>hoefde</td>
<td>gehooven</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>houden (hold)</td>
<td>hield</td>
<td>gehouden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kiezen (choose)</td>
<td>koos</td>
<td>gekozen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kijken (look, watch)</td>
<td>keek</td>
<td>gekeken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>klinken (sound)</td>
<td>klonk</td>
<td>geklonken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>komen (come)</td>
<td>kwam</td>
<td>gekomen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kopen (buy)</td>
<td>kocht</td>
<td>gekocht</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kunnen (can, be able to)</td>
<td>kon</td>
<td>gekund</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lachen (laugh)</td>
<td>lachte</td>
<td>gelachen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>laten (let)</td>
<td>liet</td>
<td>gelaten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lezen (read)</td>
<td>las</td>
<td>gelezen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>liggen (lay)</td>
<td>lag</td>
<td>gelegen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lijken (look like)</td>
<td>leek</td>
<td>geleken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lopen (walk)</td>
<td>liep</td>
<td>gelopen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>moeten (have to, must)</td>
<td>moest</td>
<td>gemoeten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mogen (be allowed, may)</td>
<td>mocht</td>
<td>gemogen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dutch verb</td>
<td>Past tense</td>
<td>Past participle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---------------</td>
<td>-----------</td>
<td>----------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nemen (take)</td>
<td>nam</td>
<td>genomen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>roepen (call)</td>
<td>riep</td>
<td>geroepen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>schenken (give, (poetic))</td>
<td>schonk</td>
<td>geschonken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>scheppen (create)</td>
<td>schiek</td>
<td>geschonken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>schieten (shoot)</td>
<td>schoot</td>
<td>geschoten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>schuiven (shift, push)</td>
<td>schoof</td>
<td>geschoven</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>slaan (beat)</td>
<td>sloeg</td>
<td>geslagen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>slapen (sleep)</td>
<td>sliep</td>
<td>geslapen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>sluiten (close, shut)</td>
<td>sluit</td>
<td>gesloten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spreken (speak)</td>
<td>sprak</td>
<td>gesproken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>springen (jump)</td>
<td>sprong</td>
<td>gesprongen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>staan (stand)</td>
<td>stond</td>
<td>gestaan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>steken (sting, stab)</td>
<td>stak</td>
<td>gestoken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>sterven (die)</td>
<td>stierf</td>
<td>gestorven</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>treffen (hit)</td>
<td>trof</td>
<td>getroffen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>trekken (pull)</td>
<td>trok</td>
<td>getrokken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vallen (fall)</td>
<td>viel</td>
<td>gevallen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vangen (catch)</td>
<td>ving</td>
<td>gevangen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vergeten (forget)</td>
<td>vergat</td>
<td>vergeten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>verliezen (loose)</td>
<td>verloor</td>
<td>verloren</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vinden (find)</td>
<td>vond</td>
<td>gevonden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vliegen (fly)</td>
<td>vloog</td>
<td>gevlogen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>voorkomen (prevent)</td>
<td>voorkwam</td>
<td>voorkomen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vóórkomen (happen)</td>
<td>kwam voor</td>
<td>voorgekomen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vragen (ask)</td>
<td>vroeg</td>
<td>gevraagd</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>weten (know (something))</td>
<td>wist</td>
<td>geweten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wijzen (point)</td>
<td>wees</td>
<td>gewezen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>winnen (win)</td>
<td>won</td>
<td>gewonnen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>worden (become)</td>
<td>werd</td>
<td>geworden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zeggen (say)</td>
<td>zei</td>
<td>gezegd</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zien (see)</td>
<td>zag</td>
<td>gezien</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zijn (be)</td>
<td>was</td>
<td>geweest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zingen (sing)</td>
<td>zong</td>
<td>gezongen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zinken (sink)</td>
<td>zonk</td>
<td>gezonken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zitten (sit)</td>
<td>zat</td>
<td>gezeten</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zoeken (look for)</td>
<td>zocht</td>
<td>gezocht</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zullen (will, shall)</td>
<td>zou</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Verb couples

In Dutch there are three ways of combining two verbs:

1. Using the past participle

You do this when the first verb is:

- hebben - to have
  ik heb een tekening gemaakt (I have made a drawing)
- zijn - to be de tekening is gemaakt - the drawing is made
- worden - to be(-come) (often is being) de tekening wordt gemaakt (the drawing is being bcm/comes)made

2. Using the infinitive

You do this when the first verb is:

- blijven - to stay
  hij blijft slapen - he's staying to sleep
- gaan - to go
  hij gaat fietsen - he is going to ride a bicycle
- komen - to come
  hij komt eten - he's coming to eat (he's coming for dinner)
- kunnen - to can/to be able to ik kan niet komen - I can't come
- laten - to let/to have something done ik laat mijn haar knippen - I let my hair cut (have my hair cut) ik laat hem gaan - I let him go
- moeten - to must/to have to ik moet gaan - I have to go
- mogen - to may/to be allowed to je mag dat niet doen - you are not allowed to do that
- willen - to want
  ik wil eten - I want to eat
- zullen - to will/to shall ik zal zien - I'll see
- horen when it literally means to hear ik hoor hem schreeuwen - I hear him shout
- voelen - to feel ik voel het groeien - I feel it growing
- zien when it literally means to see ik zie de zon schijnen - I see the sun shining
- leren - to learn: optional ik leer fietsen (most current) or ik leer te fietsen - I'm learning to ride a bicycle

3. Using the infinitive + te

You do this when the first verb is none of the above

Ik probeer te komen - I try to come
Ik begin het te leren - I'm beginning to learn it

Remarks on all this:

- Note that in Dutch there is no way to express the difference between English forms as in The door is closed and The door has been closed. Both become de deur is gesloten.
- There's also no difference for the Dutch between He stays asleep, He remains sleeping and He is staying to sleep - it's all Hij blijft slapen.
• So speaking Dutch you might try to use only the abovementioned combinations. There are more possibilities - you could even use up to five (theoretically even more) verbs in a sentence - but they're so complex that they're really just an invitation to make silly mistakes.
Reflexive verbs

Observe this sentence:

- Ik vraag me af wat hij doet (I wonder what he does).

In the form above, there is one sentence that contains a reflexive verb: the infinitive here, is zich afvragen (to wonder); if the dictionary states that zich (‘oneself’) belongs to a verb it means it’s a reflexive one. This is a kind of verb that requires the subject to be an object too. In English, you can do this with some verbs (I’m washing myself, I find myself ..., I’m exerting myself), but in Dutch you have to do this to quite a lot of verbs.

A few examples:

- zich herinneren - to remember
- zich schamen - to be ashamed
- zich vergissen - to be mistaken
- zich verheugen op - to look forward to
- zich voorstellen - to imagine

Some other verbs can be reflexive: they require an object and this could be the subject. Examples:

- (zich) bewegen - to move
- (zich) scheren - to shave
- (zich) wassen - to wash

Here are some phrases with these verbs. Note that the reflexive pronoun is always placed after the first verb:

Ik herinner me zijn naam niet.
Zij schaamde zich diep voor haar fout.
Hij heeft zich helemaal vergist.
Zij zal zich verheugen op haar huwelijk.
Kun je je voorstellen hoe zwaar zijn leven is?
Hij kan zich niet meer bewegen.
Zij heeft zich vandaag nog niet geschoren.
Hij wast zich elke ochtend.
The reflexive pronouns you need for the reflexive verbs are listed below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>subject reflexive</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ik</td>
<td>me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jij</td>
<td>je</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>u</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hij</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zij</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>het</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wij</td>
<td>ons</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jullie</td>
<td>je</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zij</td>
<td>zich</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Comparative & superlative

In the phrase above you can find what is called a comparative: langzamer. The original form langzaam is extended wit -er and because of the Dutch spelling rules (lesson 1) there's one -a less.

Except for the one -a thing, this is the same as what happens in English: 'thin-thinner' is in Dutch dun-dunner and even irregular forms are a lot alike: 'good-better' is in Dutch goed-beter.

And there's more good news, for the superlative is almost the same: in English you add '-est' ('thinnest'), in Dutch just '-st (dunst). Usually the article het is used for the superlative (*Dit boek is het dunst*).

The only tricky thing, is that you have an extra -d if the word ends on a -r

More good news: the list of irregular ones is very short:

- goed-beter-best
- graag-liever-liefst
- veel-meer-meest
- weinig-minder-minst
Here's a list of examples, which is at the same time a list of opposites:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>adverb</th>
<th>comparative</th>
<th>superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>goedkoop</td>
<td>goedkoper</td>
<td>goedkoopst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>duur</td>
<td>duurder</td>
<td>duurst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hoog</td>
<td>hoger</td>
<td>hoogst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>laag</td>
<td>lager</td>
<td>laagst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>groot</td>
<td>groter</td>
<td>grootst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>klein</td>
<td>kleiner</td>
<td>kleinst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>schoon</td>
<td>schoener</td>
<td>schoonst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vies</td>
<td>viezer</td>
<td>viest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mooi</td>
<td>mooier</td>
<td>mooist</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lelijk</td>
<td>lelijker</td>
<td>lelijkst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>oud</td>
<td>ouder</td>
<td>oudst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jong</td>
<td>jonger</td>
<td>jongst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kort</td>
<td>korter</td>
<td>kortst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lang</td>
<td>langer</td>
<td>langst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>moeilijk</td>
<td>moeilijker</td>
<td>moeilijkst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(ge)makkelijk</td>
<td>(ge)makkelijker</td>
<td>(ge)makkelijkst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>licht</td>
<td>lichter</td>
<td>lichtst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>donker</td>
<td>donkerder</td>
<td>donkerst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>zwaar</td>
<td>zwaarder</td>
<td>zwaarst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>heet</td>
<td>heter</td>
<td>heetst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>warm</td>
<td>warmer</td>
<td>warmst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>koud</td>
<td>kouder</td>
<td>koudst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>slim</td>
<td>slimmer</td>
<td>slimst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dom</td>
<td>dommer</td>
<td>domst</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Nightmares of er

To a lot of foreigners er is a very confusing word. Not only can it mean a lot of things (like there, it, or just nothing), it is also hard to study since it is mostly pronounced as d'r, 'r or even as hardly anything at all. Besides, it can also be found at several places in the sentence.

First a few examples:

- Woon je in Amsterdam? Ja, ik woon er al drie jaar. (Doyou live in Amsterdam? Yes, I'm living there for three years already.)
- Er staat een paard in de gang. (There's a horse standing in the hall)
- Hoe gaat het ermee? (How are you?)
- Hoeveel kinderen heb je? Ik heb er drie. (How many children do you have? I've got three.)
- Je ziet er goed uit. (You're looking good.)

Only in the first two examples er is literally translated - in the other ones it could be translated, but that would mostly produce a weird sentence. Nevertheless, the use of er could very well be explained by its different possible meanings if you don't take 'meanings' too literal.

1 - Er means there/here

This could be (a) a not emphasized place, or (b) a non-particular subject.

(a) In the sentence Ja, ik woon er al drie jaar you could replace er by either hier ('right here') or daar ('over there') if you're pointing somewhere, but you're not doing that in this case.

(b) In the sentence Er staat een paard in de gang, you could do the same. If you want to say Right here - and not over there - there is a horse standing in the hall, you would indeed use hier and daar. Hier - en niet daar - staat een paard in de gang.

Note however, that we are talking about een paard - a horse, so a non-particular subject. If it would be het paard - the horse, we couldn't use er. We would either use daar or hier, or - even better - just start with the subject: Het paard staat (hier/daar) in de gang.

2 - Er means it or them

Consider these sentences, where the object is replaced:

- Ik zie de film - ik zie hem (I see it)
- Ik zie het programma - ik zie het (I see it)
- Ik zie de boeken - ik zie ze (I see them)

You see that for things you can use hem referring to de words, het referring to het words and ze referring to plurals.

Now consider these:
• Ik kijk naar de film - ik kijk ernaar (I look at it)
• Ik kijk naar het programma - ik kijk ernaar (I look at it)
• Ik kijk naar de boeken - ik kijk ernaar (I look at them)

So when there's a preposition, we use er to refer to tode words, het words or plurals. And we place it not only before the preposition, but also attached to it (like ernaar, erin, erop, ervan etc.). There can however, in more complex sentences, be something (like a 'when', 'where' or 'how' statement, or simply niet) between er and the preposition:

- Ik kijk er niet naar.
- Ik kijk er vandaag liever niet naar.

Watch out, though: er is only used for things - for persons we use the appropriate pronouns:

- Ik kijk naar hem/haar/jou/...

3 - Er means of them when counting

When something is counted and not mentioned, you use erto refer to the object. You can use van meaning of, but you don't have to and mostly mostly a Dutchman wouldn't think of using it:

- Hoeveel kinderen heb je? Ik heb er drie.
- Hoeveel auto's zie je? Ik zie er tien.
- Hoeveel huizen heb je? Ik heb er een.
- Heb jij een auto? Nee ik heb er geen.

So while in English you have the choice between I have ten or I have ten of them, in Dutch the current thing to say is only Ik heb er tien (for most Englishspeaking students it somehow feels weird saying this and they need to practice it for a while to get it 'into the system').

4 - Expressions

A lot of Dutch phrases containing er are merely to be taken as expressions and not to be translated literally. In grammatical sense er would have a meaning like mentioned above (here/there/it/them/...), but that doesn't always fully explain the form.

Take, for example Hoe gaat het ermee? It could be translated as How goes it there with? or even just How goes it with it, but that doesn't explain why this sentence is used this much (besides Hoe gaat het).

Or Je ziet er goed uit: it could be translated as You look good out of it - but that still doesn't make much sense.

So, in those cases, an expression is better just taken as it is without to much questioning about the grammatical form.
Words like maar, eens and even

Kijk eens!
Kom maar.
Wil je de deur even(tjes) open doen?
Ga eens even opzij.
Kijk maar eens even door deze bril.

Although these sentences are hardly considered difficult to understand, they are not really easy to translate into English. They could result in something like:
Hey, look!
Just come over here, please.
Would you (please) just open the door?
Just move aside.
(Come on) just look through these glasses.

The problem is, that those little words like maar, eens and even do not only have a literal meaning (but, once, shortly), but also a modifying function in the sentence. In a lot of cases you could say that they mean something like just, and are squeezed into the sentence to make it less direct and more polite. In fact, if you take a commanding sentence, you can just ‘soften’ it, by putting one (or some) of those words in it. For example kom hier is a quite rude command, while kom eens hier or kom even hier is a lot more friendly and kom maar hier could even be something like a very inviting gesture.

There are a few more words with similar functions, though maar, eens and even are the most frequently used. Take for example gewoon and hoor:

Je moet gewoon naar de tandarts.
Nou, tot ziens, hoor.

Here too, you could use just in your translation into English:
You just have to go to the dentist.
Well, just goodbye then.

Generally, whenever you notice those words are not making sense when you assign their literal meaning to them, you could leave them out, get the meaning of the sentence without them and keep in mind that someone is trying to be polite here.

But if you want to use those words correctly yourself, the best thing you could do is probably to analyze their use for a while, because they all have their specific contexts. It is impossible to give rules for that, but I noticed that a lot of students were able to develop a good sense for it, just by reading, listening and analyzing.

To give some indications (remember, these are no rules, just vague patterns):

- maar means often just in a reassuring way.
- eens and even often mean just in the sense of a friendly come on or just hey, or even please (mag ik even bellen - can I make a phone call please).
- gewoon mostly means just in the sense of ‘no big deal’.
- hoor often means something like hey or isay, but watch out: the meaning is very much depending on the tone of the voice and can vary from a reassuring to a reprimanding hey. 